Mrs. Webb to direct Head Start

CAPE GIRARDEAU- Mrs. Imogene Webb, a supervisor and instructor at Southeast Missouri State University's Campus School, is scheduled to become director of the Head Start Program operated by the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation.

The change is being made because Southeast Missouri State expects to assume administration of the program on Jan. 1, pending approval of a $1.1 million federal grant. The University of Missouri now administers the program, but is bowing out at the end of the year.

Mrs. Webb will become assistant director when Southeast Missouri State takes over and will succeed Ed Greenfield as director on June 1. Greenfield is an employe of the University of Missouri system and is expected to be reassigned to other duties within the system

With headquarters in Portageville, the DAEOC Head Start Program involves about 1,300 children, ages 3, 4, and 5, from culturally and economically disadvantaged backgrounds. There is a staff of more than 300 professionals and adult aides.

The children served live in the Southeast Missouri counties of Stoddard, Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin, and Pemiscot.

Purpose of Head Start, which had its inception during the presidency of the late Lyndon Johnson, is to provide educational, medical, dental and social advantages to eligible participants.

Prior to joining the Southeast Missouri State faculty, Mrs. Webb was a teacher and elementary principal in rural schools near Naylor for 16 years and in the Naylor city system for nine years. She still maintains her home in Naylor, spending her weekends there while living in an apartment in Cape Girardeau during the week.

Mrs. Webb received both her bachelor of science in education and master of science in education degrees at Arkansas State University. She has done additional graduate work at the University of Missouri, George Peabody College for Teachers, the University of South Dakota, the University

Board makes kindergarten mandatory

Kindergarten attendance is now a prerequisite for entering the first grade in the Sikeston R-6 School District.

The school board voted Tuesday to make kindergarten mandatory.

Under the board's ruling, children entering the first grade must be 6 years old by Oct. 1 of the year they are enrolled and must have completed two semesters of public or private kindergarten.

Supt. Sam Harbin said the move will eliminate the problem of children entering the first grade without kindergarten. Such children are usually behind other children and create problems for the teachers, according to Harbin.

The resolution making kindergarten mandatory said "studies have shown very clearly that children who are exposed to an environment especially designed to stimulate their intellectual, social, emotional and physical growth between birth and the time they enter first grade are more likely to experience success in total future development."

Students transferring into the district after school has been in session for nine weeks or more will be placed in their established grade level for a two- week trial period. Students transferring in before nine weeks, must meet the requirements of local children.

Students in vocational and nonacademic classrooms have already found temperatures in the rooms lowered to 68 degrees, Harbin said. Temperatures in academic classrooms and rooms for elementary children have not been lowered.

Harbin said the school system has been working for years to conserve energy, primarily to save money.

Harbin added he believes the school system will get all the gasoline it needs to keep its buses running, even if it had to go to independent dealers. Harbin said the school system has a firm contract with its supplier, but there are signs the dealer may have difficulty fulfilling his contract.

The school's buses get very poor mileage, Harbin said. Most buses get four miles to the gallon, but one gets only one mile to the gallon.

Harbin said the school system has a non-interruptable natural gas contract. But Harbin said the school system has been told that if the crisis is severe, the flow of gas could be shut down.

Harbin said if the nation switches back to Daylight Savings Time it will have no effect on school schedules.

A survey showed 521 students handicapped in some way attend the schools sysem. The largest number of handicapped students are those with speech problems, numbering 205, 105 educable mentally retarded and 121 with some kind of learning disability.

There is one blind student in the system and eight who have partial sight.

There are four students with epilepsy, six with cerebral palsy, 21 with special health problems, 11 with orthopedic problems, 15 emotionally disturbed, and eight hard of hearing. Five deaf students are being served at the Missouri school for the Deaf at Fulton. Eleven trainable retarded children are served at the state school for mentally retarded.

Harbin said construction on the new junior high school is on schedule, and

Joint landfill use urged by mayors

VANDUSER— The Scott County Mayors Association voted unanimously Tuesday night to ask the Scott County Court to make an effort to work out an agreement with Mississippi County for joint use of the Scott County sanitary landfill.

The mayors also heard Jerry Harlow and K. M. Streeter, representatives of the Soil and Water Conservation Service office at Benton discuss the Scott County standard soil survey in a meeting at the Vanduser Community Building.

Landowner and residents of the Illmo, Scott City and Commmerce area have been fighting for establishment of a Mississippi County landfill on 80 acres of Scott County land owned by Herb Pickett of rural Illmo.

The objecting landowners have appeared before the Mississippi and Scott County Courts to voice their opposition. The group claimed that a watershed from the land could pollute Holden Creek which runs through adjoining land and is used to water livestock.

Mississippi County has reported difficulty in finding a suitable landfill site within county boundaries because the water table is too high.

Bill Winchester, presiding judge of the Mississippi County Court, has said Mississippi County has been trying for two years to obtain a cooperative landfill agreement with Scott County without success and that his county must have an acceptable plan ready by the first of the year, so the county began looking at sites in north Scott County.

The opposition group said if no legal way can be found to prevent Mississippi County from locating in Scott County, the Scott County Court should invite Mississippi County to use its landfill on a cooperating basis.

Mississippi County Court said a tentative agreement was reached with Scott County when talks first began about building a landfill, but when Scott County permitted James Patrick of St. Louis to take over the landfill as a private enterprise, Mississippi County began looking for a site of its own.

Members of the Scott County Court have said Mississippi County backed out on the agreement.

The Scott County mayors agreed Tuesday night that it would be a lot cheaper on both counties to have a joint landfill instead of each county trying to operate one separately, and a lot of people would be made happy if the two counties had a joint operation.

Harlow told the mayors the Scott County standard soil survey is running ahead of schedule. By the end of

Pickard awarded Beaver

The Silver Beaver, the highest award given to an adult Boy Scout leader, was presented Tuesday night to Layton Pickard of Charleston, who has given over 25 years of service to scouting in the Southeast Missouri Council.

Pickard received the award from Judge Marshall Craig, a past recipient, at the annual Okeechobee District appreciation dinner at First United Methodist Church.

The highest award a district may present to an adult scouter, the Award of Merit, was presented to Bob Browning and Sharon Roberts, both of Sikeston Cub Scout Pack 43, by Jerry Hampton.

The annual appreciation night is held to recognize those who have given their time so that scouting is possible for the youth of the area.

Special awards were presented to Hampton for service to scouting as district commissioner.

Duane Williams of Sikeston was recognized as chairman of the Scout- O-Rama. Also recognized for service on the Scout- O-Rama Committee were Paul Schorey, Nora Springs, Lillian Matthews, Bob Browning, Roy Nall and Hampton of Sikeston and Edward Hill and Mike Euer of East Prairie.

Bluff man killed in accident

A rural Poplar Bluff man was killed and two persons were injured in two area traffic accidents Tuesday, the highway patrol announced today.

Richard Pilcher, 59, was dead on arrival at Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff following an accident at 9:40 a.m. on Highway 142 at Neelyville.

The patrol said the accident occurred when the left front wheel of Pilcher's westbound truck came off, causing Pilcher to lose control. His truck crossed the center line and collided with an eastbound truck driven by Ludwig Kovach, 57, of Harviell.

Kovach received minor injuries and was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff. Pilcher's body was taken to Cotrell Funeral Home in Poplar Bluff.

One person was injured in an accident at 8 a.m. on Highway 67 at Silva when a car driven by Gerald Deken, 24, of Cape Girardeau, slowing for a school bus, was rammed from behind by another school bus driven by Loretta Fox, 25, of Greenville.

Deken suffered a head cut and was also taken to Doctors Hospital.

Stolen TV sets recovered

Two portabel television sets, stolen Nov. 4 from McConnell's Magnavox Home Entertainment Center in Kingsway Plaza Mall, have been recovered and returned to the Sikeston Police Department.

Detective Sgt. Jack Patterson said today the sets were found in a farm field about five miles southeast of Dexter.

The sets were stolen by three men who backed their car up to the front of the store, broke out a window and loaded the sets into the car.

The burglary was interrupted by two off- duty policemen, Gary Brown and Joe Sebourn. Brown pulled his car in front of the burglars' vehicle. The burglars fled, smashing into Brown's car in the process.

Three men were later arrested in Poplar Bluff and charged with the crime. However, the television sets were not in their possession at the time of arrest.

The television sets were found over the weekend by a farmer's wife. Patterson said the sets were under some brush, but did not appear to be damaged. Patterson brought the sets back to Sikeston Tuesday.

Professor to reveal UFO findings

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A physics professor at Southeast Missouri State University will make public Saturday a progress report of a scientific investigation into the nature and origin of strange lights reported over Southeast Missouri.

The occasion will be the fall meeting at Meramec Community College in St. Louis of the Missouri Region, American Association of Physics Teachers. Form of the report will be a paper presented by Dr. Harley Rutledge.

Co- authored by Dr. Rutledge, head of the physics department at the university, and Dr. James Sage, assistant professor of industrial and technical education at Southeast Missouri State, the paper is entitled "Project Identification: A Preliminary Investigation of Anomalistic Lights in the Sky Over Southeast Missouri."

Dr. Rutledge will not say what the paper will disclose, but a hint may be contained in one newspaper story which quoted the professor as saying, "To me anyway, our experiences have been incredible."

The "experiences" Dr. Rutledge mentioned were more than 70 nights of field investigagion by him, Dr. Sage, and other faculty members and students at Southeast Missouri State.

The field work began on April 6 in the Piedmont area, where reports of strange lights were frequent at that time. As residents in other areas of Southeast Missouri also reported strange sightings, the scene switched, and most recently Dr. Rutledge has been investigating reports from Sikeston.

All of the investigative work was carried out in accordance with strict scientific guidelines and a variety of instruments was used.

These instruments are enumerated in a description of the presentation in the October newsletter of the Missouri Region, American Association of Physics Teachers.

That same description notes also that "photographic . . . data are presented."

Dr. Rutledge has been a member of the Southeast Missouri State faculty since 1963. A former high school teacher, he earned his bachelor's degree at Tarkio College and his master's and doctor's degrees at the University of Missouri.

He has published and presented a number of papers in his field and is a member of several professional organizations. He has been president of both the Missouri branch of the American Association of Physics Teachers and the Missouri Academy of Science.

Dr. Sage joined the Southeast Missouri State faculty in 1970. He is a graduate of Ferris State College, Wayne State University, and the University of Missouri.

CAN "PEACE" COME TO THE MIDEAST?

It is becoming evident that Israel is about to be faced with the most excruciating dilemma of its stormy, twenty-five year existence. It must decide whether to make territorial concessions to the Arab demands for the return of their lands captured in 1967, or to stand pat on its present military established boundaries.

Until the most recent war the issue could be avoided because the Arabs would not even meet with the Israelies unless the precondition of Israeli withdrawal was first accepted. Israel refused discussions on such a basis and meantime sent her own people into the captured territories with every indication that their occupation would be made permanent. It was this progreessive fait accompli under pretext of diplomatic stalemate that drove the Arabs to resort to war.

In the aftermath the Arabs now seem willing and eager to meet Israel face- to - face on the assumption that world opinion and big power insistence on a permanent settlement will be working in their favor.

This assumption seems valid. Even though militarily defeated once more, the Arabs can make a persuasive case that if Israel does not withdraw the future holds only endless conflict, with the inevitable risk of the U. S. - Soviet involvement. The Arabs fought well enough to destroy the argument that they would have to make peace because they could not make war. This was a comfortable foundation stone of Israel's pre-October 1973 policy.

"The United States recognizes that the conditions that produced the war on Oct. 6 cannot be permitted to continue" said Dr. Kissinger in his October 25 press conference. The message is clear. With its Arab oil cut off until Israel withdraws, the U. S. is going to come down hard on the Jewish state.

How severe will U. S. pressure be? How much will Israel have to give up, and what can Israel expect in return to meet its requirements for secure boundaries? Will Israeli public opinion embittered by the Arab attack on Yom Kippur, and already angry at a government which permitted itself to be caught by surprise, permit the territorial concessions that will have to be made to satisfy even minimum Arab demands? These are grim questions which now face Israel's leaders.

The nub of the problem is that peace can come to the Mideast only if Israel now agrees to trade land for words — words of reassurance from the Arabs and guarantees from the big powers. Historically, words have never been a good basis for security because the circumstances which produced them can so easily change. And the Jews have their own special historical experiences.

All in all, the chances for a real Mideast peace still do not look bright.

The Wall Street Journal writes, "Students have defaulted on $55.2 million of federally guaranteed loans over the past five years, the Office of Education said. Officials said they have recovered only $3.2 million of the amount so far, and have increased the number of collectors to 28 from three. Some $6.1 billion of federal and state guaranteed loans have gone to 6.1 million college and vocational school students since the program began in 1966; about 75 per cent of the defaults involved students at vocational schools."

Noting that the nation's mines, mills, and crowded cities are often breeding places for lung disease, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO today called for support of the 1973 Christmas Seal campaign. He was joined in his endorsement by Leonard Woodcock, president of the International Union, United Automobile, Aerospace & Agricultural Implement Workers of American - UAW.

The backing of the labor leaders was expressed in letters to Dr. Wendell L. Van Loan, president of the American Lung Association, which conducts the annual drive to prevent and control emphysema, tuberculosis and occupational diseases such as "black lung," as well as air pollution.

Pointing out that among the 35,000,000 Americans suffering from lung disease are many union members and their families, Meany said the AFL-CIO is especially concerned with research in respiratory disease and in seeing that occupational and environmental hazards are "pinpointed, prevented and eradicated." Praising the "distinguished work your agency has done in health education," Meany added, "I urge all our affiliates and members to support your 1973 Christmas Seal campaign through our AFL-CIO community services program."

The endorsement from Woodcock, a one- time tuberculosis patient, underscored a personal concern for fighting lung disease in addition to continued interest by his labor organization in eliminating hazardous working conditions that contribute to lung- crippling diseases.

John Winter, M. D., chairman, Air Pollution Committee for the American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri, emphasized that irritants in the air such as dust, asbestos, cotton fibres and many other pollutants are a prime factor in contributing to lung disease. Lung associations, therefore, have as one of their major objectives cleansing the air in factories, mines and other places where people work, he said. Support of the Christmas Seal campaign by all citizens so that programs to protect the lungs can be accelerated, he added, is a "matter of life and breath."

MR. NIXON'S PROSECUTOR

President Nixon's choice as special prosecutor of the Watergate and related crimes, Leon Jaworski of Texas, may have many qualifications for the job. But he should not be approved by Congress. It is not consistent with a basic principle of justice for one of the leading suspects in this criminal case to name the prosecutor.

The Board of Governors of the American Bar Association has reaffirmed this principle in a formal statement and has proposed that Congress establish an independent office of special prosecutor. The bar association board proposes that Congress authorize the appointment of such a special prosecutor by the U. S. District Court for the District of Columbia.

President Nixon said he would not fire Jaworski, as he did Archibald Cox, without first consulting with House and Senate Democratic and Republican leaders and the leading members of the judiciary committees of Congress.

This does not provide assurance of a full and honest investigation and prosecution. It provides no assurance that Jaworski is a capable man to handle such a probe. The fact that he is a former president of the bar association does not mean he is a good prosecutor.

His close association with former President Lyndon B. Johnson and former Treasury Secretary John Connally is not a guarantee of impartial prosecution, especially in view of the huge contributions to the Nixon re-election campaign from Texas. Some of the contributions were in the package of money "laundered" through Mexico and kept from public view.

But aside from that, Jaworski would inevitably be Nixon's man, and the public would not have confidence that the crimes were being prosecuted impartially.

Mr. Nixon also nominated a new head of the Department of Justice, Senator William B. Saxbe, of Ohio. We know of no reasons why Saxbe could not be a strong attorney general who could build up confidence and morale among Justice Department employes again. Such rebuilding is badly needed.

Saxbe has proved to be an independent man in Congress. In the circumstances, that is an especially important attribute for the next attorney general. However, Congress ought to examine his qualifications in other respects most carefully. The law enforcement machinery of the federal government has been seriously undermined in this administration. That includes the FBI.

Congress has the responsibility to take hold of the Watergate investigation and to clean up the Department of Justice.

A RELATIVE TERM

Hardship is a relative term. Rough going for one person would be considered easy sailing by another. The same goes for whole nations. Consumers in our country march on Washington over grievances that would be laughable to citizens of other countries.

A New York Times special news release reports on current economic troubles in Yugoslavia. There the average take- home pay is the equivalent of $100 a month. And the average family spends half of its income on food -- compared to less than 16 per cent for the average family in the United States. Despite this, the government has decreed that the price of white bread must rise by 23 per cent, cooking oil 10 per cent, etc. Yugoslavia has recently had a rate of inflation estimated to be around 16 per cent during the past year.

It is easy to imagine what would happen in the United States if American citizens had to pay half of their monthly income for food and, at the same time, face such stiff price increases as those now confronting the people of Yugoslavia. Yes, hardship is a relative term, and most Americans have little understanding of what it means.

A PUBLIC RESPONSIBILITY

Billions of dollars are spent every year toward achieving the goal of highway safety. Paradoxically, one phase of highway safety efforts -- that having to do with rail grade crossing accidents -- has been neglected. Possibly the reason for this has been a misinformed belief that grade crossing protective measures are a responsibility of railroads. But such is far from the case.

A trend toward public responsibility for highway grade crossing safety began with a U. S. Supreme Court decision in 1877. That decision held that the rights and obligations of a railroad company and those of a public highway user were "mutual and reciprocal". Then in 1935, in another milestone case, the Supreme Court held that grade crossing protection should be primarily a public responsibility rather than an equal one. Justice Brandeis, in handing down the Court's opinion, wrote, "The railroad has ceased to be the prime instrument of danger and the main cause of accidents. It is the railroad which now requires protection from dangers incident to motor transportation." Subsequent to the 1935 Court decision, federal highway appropriations have allocated certain percentages of road construction funds to removal of grade crossing hazards. In the 51 years, from 1920 through 1970, more than 86,000 people were killed and almost 230,000 injured in accidents at grade crossings. The president of the Association of American Railroads has noted that "grade crossings are the single most readily- identifiable location of highway accidents ...," and only about 20 per cent of the total now have protective devices.

In expressing support for greater federal programs to help improve grade crossings, the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission has said that such programs would by"... a small price to pay for the substantial benefits to be derived." The tragedies and inconvenience which mark the meeting of every railroad and highway emphasize the urgency of making grade crossing protection a number one priority in the overall goal of highway safety.

STEAMFITTERS NEED SCOURING

"Politically powerful and violence- wracked union" has been a trite but all too true description for years of the St. Louis local.

So it was hardly surprising The Globe Democrat discovered that almost half of the $368.000 the steamfitter local collected last year in "voluntary" lugs was disbursed in administrative costs without public disclosure.

Nor is anyone likely to be surprised that the fitters' Voluntary Political, Education, Legislative, Charity and Defense Fund gave out $241,000 to political candidates last year. Such funds, which are theoretically separate from normal union activities, enable unions to evade campaign laws which forbid union contributions to candidates for office.

It has been estimated that over the decades the local has distributed more than $20 million to politicians, including President Lyndon B. Johnson, who in 1964 commuted the prison sentence of racketeer Lawrence Callanan, union boss, without any restrictions. Callanan returned to run Local 562 until his natural death in 1971, whereupon reformist Edward Steska took over. Steska was murdered in February 1972, a crime never solved.

Steamfitter goon Louis Shoulders got blown to pieces that August, along with a former fitter that October. Callanan's son, a union agent, lost some limbs but not his life last June.

And these are just a few of the highlights — if they can be called that — of the violence.

Unfortunately, between this and the wholesale buying or attempted buying of candidates, the U. S. Senate investigations subcommittee in August found "no new information" to warrant an investigation, proposed the previous month by its chairman, Sen. Henry Jackson.

Unfortunately, the national union has never stepped in to take the local into trusteeship.

Unfortunately, the vast majority of steamfitters, although honest and disturbed, dare say nothing or do nothing for fear of meeting the same fate as Steska.

Unfortunately, Congress has never closed off the contributions loopholes which allow unions to make marionettes out of office holders.

And unfortunately, the Justice Department, its criminal division, the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, and the St. Louis anti-crime task force have been unable so far to clear up the crimes and clean up the union, as was done with the miners' union following the murder of three of the Yablonski family.

How fire-safe is your home? Most homeowners are careful not to overload electrical circuits, store combustible waste materials, or leave fireplaces unscreened. But there are other basic fire-safety measures that should be built into a home to assure maximum safeguards against the threat of fire.

One of the most important is fire- resistant roofing. The National Fire Protection Association has for years urged enactment of community codes that prohibit use of readily combustible roofing.

An increasing number of communities do require roofing that qualifies as fire-resistant. Such roofing includes asphalt shingles, tile, slate, metal, asbestos cement, asphalt roll roofing, and chemically-treated wood shingles.

Other built-in structural fire- safety factors are:

. Walls of non-combustible materials such as plaster, gypsum or asbestos- cement. Insulation should be fire-resistant.

. Doors that are solid (not hollow core) and tight-fitting enough to hold back fire and smoke.

. Windows large and low enough to serve as emergency exits, and easily opened even by children.

. Chimneys that are "lined" and reach well above the roof peak.

. Use of "firestop" barriers between wall studs, floor joists and ceiling rafters to block the passage of heat, smoke, and flames.

. Furnaces that are properly installed and serviced. There should be sufficient air for proper combustion of oil, gas and coal furnaces and adequate wall clearance around furnace and flue pipes.

HISTORY OF DRUGS X

As we stated in our last column about the history of drugs, "... by 1900, the widespread consumption of patent medicines, and the dangers of opium addiction had become serious problems in the United States." Several characteristics of opiate use under nineteenth- century conditions when opiate preparations were legally available at low cost will probably strike contemporary readers as strange.

First, most users of narcotics in those days were women! By contrast, estimates during the 1960's indicated that male- users outnumbered females by at least five to one!

A second remarkable fact about the nineteenth- century use of opiates in the United States was the age of the users. A survey done in Chicago in 1880 showed an average age for males of 41.4 years and for females of 39.4 years. Today, in contrast, nearly half of all addicts down to the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs are 30 and younger and only 13.6 per cent are over 40 years of age.

A third interesting fact was the socioeconomic status of the nineteenth- century narcotics user. A survey done in 1885 in Iowa noted that the majority of opiate users, "are to be found among the educated and most honored and useful members of society."

Finally, there is no evidence of any disporportionate use of opiates among black people during the nineteenth century; indeed, there are few references to their use of opiates at all!

LIST FIVE TAX AREAS CONGRESS MAY REVIEW

Under Secretary of the Treasury Edwin S. Cohen, speaking at Tax Foundation's 24th National Tax Conference, discussed five major areas in which Congress is likely to consider tax changes in 1973.

They are capital gains taxation, the minimum tax on preference income, the Asset Depreciation Range System, Job Development, Investment Credit, and tax "shelters" resulting mainly from accelerated depreciation.

He said the Treasury and IRS recently completed more than 9,000 typewritten pages of regulations implementing the Tax Reform Act of 1969. The changes helped cut nontaxable returns with AGI over $200,000 from 300 in 1969, to 68 in 1970.

SOVIET NAVY STRENGTHENED

Talk of cordial relations with the Soviet Union is the order of the day, but we must constantly remind ourselves that the Kremlin is firmly and publicly opposed to everything that our country has stood for over the years. It is therefore well to take note of Moscow's continuing buildup of its aggressive potential.

Colonel Robert Heinl Jr. recently called attention to the fact that the Soviet Union is now building its second large aircraft carrier. This new ship will be a sister to the nearly completed "Kiev" and like the "Kiev" will displace about 45,000 tons and include a 600-foot flight deck.

Both carriers will be able to mount a powerful battery of guns and missile launchers and carry about 40 jet aircraft and more than 40 large helicopters.

These ships are Soviet Russia's first major aircraft carriers and join two 18,000-ton anti- submarine helicopter carriers, the "Leningrad" and the "Moskva." They are evidence of the continuing importance given the development of the Russian navy.

At the present time, Russia's navy has 1,911 ships, compared to our own 583- ship fleet. While Moscow has been building its super- modern carriers, farleftists in our government have been downgrading the importance of carriers in our own naval forces.

In the 19th century, Marx's colleague Friedrich Engels spoke of navies as "the political force at sea." The current communist leaders have obviously taken these words to heart. The greater the Kremlin's capacity to launch aggressive war, the more concessions its leaders will be able to extract from the United States. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

Caulfield's Testimony Of Nixon, Kraft Taps

WASHINGTON-- Former White House undercoverman John Caulfield has told Senate investigators about his role in wiretapping President Nixon's brother, Donald, and columnist Joseph Kraft.

These sensitive telephone taps were ordered by the President's right- hand man, John Ehrlichman, who apparently didn't trust the FBI to do the tapping "because it was a 'sieve.' "

The Secret Service not only tapped Donald Nixon's phone, according to a summary of Caulfield's closed- door testimony, but conducted "personal surveillance" of him.

"Caulfield was to monitor this project to determine if it had any merit," states the summary. "Caulfield did not listen to any of the tapes resulting from the surveillance, but merely kept abreast of the information that was being reported by the Secret Service.

'NOTHING OF VALUE'

"This wiretap was placed when Donald Nixon was out in California, and Caulfield recalls receiving telephone calls from Secret Service contacts who would report that nothing was happening.

"After three weeks, Caulfield reported to Ehrlichman that there was nothing of value coming from the surveillance, and he recommended that it should be canceled. The surveillance was allegedly terminated following Caulfield's recommendation."

As the "action officer within the White House on Nixon family problems," Ehrlichman also "gave Caulfield the assignment of tracking Donald Nixon Jr., when he got into some trouble in the Sierra Madre, California." Caulfield sent a private eye, Anthony Ulasewicz, to California "to investigate the situation and report it back to Ehrlichman."

The Joseph Kraft tap was ordered in June 1969. "Ehrlichman requested that Caulfield arrange the tap within the next 24 hours," states the summary. "Ehrlichman explained that he could not use the FBI because it was a 'sieve,' and therefore it was necessary for Caulfield to do this tap.

CONTACTED RAGAN

"After looking at the Georgetown neighborhood where Kraft lived, Caulfield went back to Ehrlichman to explain the serious difficulties inherent in placing a wiretap in that neighborhood. Ehrlichman again emphasized that the tap had to be done and so instructed Caulfield.

"Caulfield told Ehrlichman that he would contact Jack Ragan, his contact from the 1968 campaign. Ragan and Caulfield went to the neighborhood together to survey the proposed tap, and Ragan told Caulfield that he would need (more technical information) in order to implement the wiretap. Caulfield got this information for Ragan from a friend of Caulfield's in the Secret Service.

"Caulfield again went to Ehrlichman and said that a phone installer card would be necessary in case someone were caught while tampering with the telephone line. Ehrlichman instructed Caulfield to go to John Davies, then on the White House staff, to get this card. Davies gave the card to Caulfield who passed it on to Ragan.

"About a week or ten days following the initial request from Ehrlichman, Caulfield was again called by Ehrlichman who said to cancel the wiretap because (the late FBI chief J. Edgar) Hoover would take care of it. Caulfield called Ragan to call off the tap, and Ragan told him 'It's done.' "

PUT IN 'BURN BAG'

Caulfield testified that he later obtained the telephone tape from Ragan and "destroyed it by placing it in one of the burn bags without ever telling Ehrlichman about this tape."

FOOTNOTE: My associate George Clifford reached Donald Nixon who refused to comment on the story. "But I will say this," he said, "you fellows will have a day of reckoning. There have been a lot of stories written. I have a whole drawer full of them. The stories about me by Jack Anderson and many others are 95 per cent untrue and false."

Ragan's attorney, Philip Herrick, said Ragan couldn't comment because he is talking to the Senate Watergate Committee about the Kraft tap. The White House said Davies is now in Hawaii, but repeated calls to Hawaii failed to locate him. Ehrlichman, approached through his attorney, had no comment. Kraft was unavailable in the Middle East when we went to press.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: One of the Smithsonian Institution's most fascinating historical items probably will never be put on exhibit at the famous museum. It's the list of contributions to the Nixon campaign from the Smithsonian Associates' National Board. Of 27 members on the board, 16 coughed up more than $340,000...The prestigious accounting firm of Coopers and Lybrand did the auditing to back up President Nixon's public statements about his San Clemente land deal. Now we've learned the firm got a $242,000 contract from the Justice Department to develop an accounting system for its Law Enforcement Assistance Administration....The Washington Post's rapier-penned columnist Maxine Cheshire has signed up to do a book for $150,000 to be called tentatively "VIP." One of her unprinted episodes involves a busty Playboy centerfold model who dated Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Reorganization bill needs changes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A citizens committee will have to make some changes in its proposed state reorganization bill before they will accept it, say two state senators.

Sens. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, and William J. Cason, D-Clinton, told the 90 or so committee members Tuesday that 100 years of legislative experience and 158 hours of study had gone into a reorganization bill vetoed by the governor.

"Be sure you know there is a reason for what you are doing," Webster told the citizens group. He and Cason cited several job positions and the environmental commissions where they felt the governor should make appointments with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The main argument between the legislators and the governor is over the number of jobs that would be filled by the governor—with Senate consent—instead of by department directors.

Reorganization of the executive branch into 14 major departments was approved in 1972 by the voters. The constitutional amendment says reorganization must be accomplished by July 1.

Cason and Webster served on the Senate Reorganization Committee. The chairman, Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, was angry about missing the meeting. He said the governor's aide, Charles Valier, had told him the meeting was Friday.

"Apparently this is going to be a railroad situation and I'm terribly disappointed," Spradling said.

The citizens committee, appointed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond, came up with a bill similar to one the House passed but the senate rejected.

The governor's staff wrote the bill after sending questionnaires to committee members.

Bond said he agreed with Cason and Webster that "sensitive areas should have Senate consent," but he told the committee he would not "compromise the goals of reorganization" just to ensure that there are checks and balances and absolute safeguards against political interference.

The best way to avoid political intervention is to expand the merit system, he said.

Ledrew Davis pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and was placed on supervised probation for two years.

Talmadge Ollie West of Chicago, charged with possession of a concealed weapon, was fined $25.

Anne, Mark host palace ball

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips waltzed until 3 a.m. Tuesday in the ballroom of Buckingham Palace, then sipped champagne for breakfast in their last big fling before their wedding Wednesday.

Some 1,500 guests attended the ball given by Anne's mother, Queen Elizabeth II, for the princess and her dashing dragoon.

Among them were ex-King Constantine and Queen Anne- Marie of Greece, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, Prince Juan Carlos and Princess Sofia, the future king and queen of Spain, and a dozen other members of European royalty.

Before the ball, 100 of the guests dined in the palace throne room.

Most of the 1,500 dancers beneath the ballroom's six glittering chandeliers were people who weren't invited to the wedding in Westminster Abbey. Because of the Abbey's size, that list, too, is limited to 1,500.

The pre- dawn breakfast was the 25- year- old bridegroom- to- be's second champagne nightcap in 24 hours.

The first was early Monday, at a bachelor's dinner given at a West London restaurant by 14 fellow officers from the Queen's Dragoon Guards. Phillips downed a bottle of champagne in three minutes after the owner of the restaurant promised a case free if the captain handled a whole bottle in one go.

The officers went on to finish off the case in addition to a dozen bottles of wine and liqueurs.

"We lost count after a while," one of the revelers said later.

Phillips had roast duck dumped in his lap twice, and the party reportedly ended with a spree of furniture and glass smashing and an hour of song. Diners in the next room complained — until they heard whose party it was.

"I can't remember too much about it, but it was a splendid evening," said Phillips' best man, Capt. Eric Grounds.

He paid the $500 bill — "two months' pay."

Ann Landers

Reader confuses Women's Libbers with Gay Libbers

Dear Ann Landers: My mother is constantly calling me thoughtless, selfish, stupid, inconsiderate, etc., etc. I must be all these things because she says them over and over.

Tonight she started to cut me down again. I didn't say anything, but I got so angry I hated her. My anger gave way to tears and suddenly I realized it wasn't my mother I hated, but myself.

I know parents aren't to blame for everything, but It's hard to retain self- confidence when someone as important as your mother is constantly belittling you. It would help if the put-downs were balanced by a little praise, but praise from her is unheard of.. I've stopped trying to share my experiences with her because she has a way of turning the most important events in my life into trivial matters.

I'll never stop trying to be more thoughtful and considerate, but it's awfully hard to be your best self when your own mother keeps telling you you're worthless. -- A Nothing Daughter.

Dear Daughter: Your letter is a cry for help if I ever heard one. I hope your mother got the message.

Dear Ann Landers: I couldn't believe my eyes when I read your comumn last week. You printed a letter from a girl who was depressed during a small dinner party and excused herself to go to the powder room and cry. A gal in the group became concerned after a while and decided to check. When she discovered her friend weeping she put her arms around her and said, "Don't feel rejected. I love you."

At that moment another woman entered the powder room. When she saw the two girls embracing she sputtered, "I wish you Women's Libbers would stay in your own homes!"

You chose to ignore that statement. Why? Don't you realize what she was saying? How could you allow someone to put Women's Libbers in the same bag with lesbians?

By just keeping your mouth shut you can do an awful lot of damage. Sign this letter --- Your Silence Questioned.

Dear Silence: Never mind my mouth. What's the matter with your eyes? If you will go to your local newspaper and check that column (dated August 9) you'll find the woman said, "I wish you Gay Libbers would stay in your own homes."

Your apologies are accepted.

Dear Ann Landers: Teddy and I plan to be married during the Christmas holidays. We will be living with his parents. They have a lovely home and everything a person would need. How can I tactfully let my friends and family know that I won't have any use for linens, pots and pans, appliances, china, and all the things most brides like to receive as wedding gifts. What we'd really like is CASH.

Please don't think I'm crass. I am just ---Practical.

Dear Prac: Don't tell your friends what to send and what NOT to send unless they ask. It's bad manners. Moreover, from a purely practical point of view it would be short-sighted. I hope you don't intend to live with Teddy's mother for the rest of your life. You can always put away the gifts you won't be using immediately. Later you'll be delighted that you have them --- especially those appliances. At the current rate of inflation, an electric egg beater will cost you $100 in two years --- if you can afford to buy eggs.

Miss Williamson bride of Tony Poole

Miss Jo Ann Williamson became the bride of Anthony G. Poole in a candlelight, double- ring ceremony at 8 p.m. Oct. 19 in Wesley United Methodist Church. The Rev. Jerry Statler performed the service before a background of lighted tapers in candelabras adorned with fall flowers.

Tapers and multicolored fall flowers also lined the church aisles and decorated pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Geneva Williamson, 726 E. Gladys, and the late Sidney M. Williamson. The groom's parents are Mrs. Hildred Patterson of Cathlamet, Wash., and Harold Poole, 515 Malcolm.

Bob Williamson of Brossett, Ark., brother of the bride, presented a program of prenuptial music and accompanied Roger Tolliver, who sang "We've Only Just Begun", "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Miss Libby Whitworth was maid of honor, and Mrs. Beverly Carney of Clinton was matron of honor. Mrs. Debbie Brinkman and Miss Donna Mulcahy served as bridesmaids.

Miss Whitworth's gown was yellow. The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore apricot gowns. They were identically styled from polyester crepe with empire waistlines featuring antique lacing threaded with brown velvet ribbon around the bodice and short, fitted, puffed sleeves. Their gowns were complemented by a personalized silver pendant in the shape of hearts. Each carried a nosegay of talisman roses and various fall-colored daisy mums with matching satin and velvet streamers.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Charles Williamson wore a floor- length gown of polyester sata peau.

The gown featured an empire waistline with re-embroidered Chantilly lace around the bodice and two full-length vertical rows extending down the front of the dress. The full sleeves were fashioned on the bishop styled with the cuff forming a teardrop on the back of the hand. The back fell gracefully into a chapel train with Chantilly lace gracing the hem.

The bride's fingertip-length illusion veil was fashioned from a Queen Anne tiara adorned with Guipure lace and seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a large nosegay of talisman roses and featured various colors of fall daisies and daisy mums. Matching satin and velvet streamers extended from the bouquet.

The groom was attired in an ivory brocade tuxedo trimmed in black velvet and accented with a white ruffled shirt and black, velvet, butterfly bow tie. He wore a single talisman rose in the lapel.

Thomas Poole of Sikeston, brother of the groom, served as best man. Jim Carney of Clinton, Jim Klein of Farmington and King Sidwell of Columbia were groomsmen. The best man wore a King George tuxedo trimmed in black velvet and accented with a yellow ruffled shirt and black, velvet, butterfly bow tie.

Groomsmen were attired in matching tuxedos with apricot ruffled shirts and black, velvet, butterfly bow ties. All wore rose boutonnieres.

Steve Matthews and Craig Brinkman served as ushers and candlelighters for the ceremony.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a floor-length shirt- waisted gown of polyester and chiffon. The groom's mother wore a floor - length gown of navy, lime and beige fashioned of polyester knit. Each mother wore a lime-green cymbidium orchid.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's three-tiered cake was decorated with fall- colored daisy mums around the cake and between each layer. A fall floral arrangement graced the top of the cake. Two gold candelabras decorated with fall- colored floral arrangements were on each side of the cake.

Mrs. Brenda Williamson of Fort Scott, Kan., Mrs. Kathy Mitchell and Mrs. Anita Lawson served at the reception table.

Mrs. Sondra Sharp attended the guestbook.

Out- of - town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Herman Poe, Marilyn Spurgeon, Elayne Reece and Delora Spurgeon of Jasper, Ala., Mrs. Beth Ballard of Morley; and Verlin Spurgeon, stationed in the Army in Panama.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of Sikeston High School, is a licensed practical nurse at Veterans Administration Hospital in Columbia.

The groom, a 1968 Sikeston High School graduate, will receive a bachelor of arts degree in pre-medical science in December from University of Missouri- Columbia.

He was formerly employed by Ferguson Medical Group in Sikeston as a physician's assistant and is now employed by the University of Missouri Medical Center pathology Department.

The bride was honored with a miscellaneous household shower Oct. 16 given by Miss Libby Whitworth and Mrs. Debbie Layton.

The couple honeymooned at Tan-Tara Resort near Osage Beach on the Lake of the Ozarks.

They are making their home at No. 22 Southside Trailer Court in Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony G. Poole

Variety of foods needed for meals

Repeatedly, nutritionists emphasize the value of choosing a wide variety of foods for your meals. This is a wise course because, through variety, you will tickle your palate with many different tastes; you will, as well, be more likely to gain all the different nutrients you need than if you practice a narrow choice of foods.

We suggest that you follow the four- food- group plan -- that is, select your foods from the vast collection of goodies that belong to the milk group, the meat- fish- poultry- egg broup, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals. These groups offer you everything except pure fats and sugars. But each of the foods will offer you some fat and/or some sugar in some form.

In my opinion, only after these foods -- and within a calorie level that will not cause you to gain weight -- should you add sugars and fats per se in any quantity to your meals. I am not rigid on this. But generally, this is the pattern you should follow.

And, speaking of calories, it is important that you choose your calories "by the company they keep." What that means is, choose foods that give you a lot of nutrition but not a lot of calories.

Take milk. In 1972, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, of the foods available for consumption in the U.S., dairy foods (excluding butter) provided the following percentages of available nutrients: calcium, 76; riboflavin, 41; phosphorus, 36; protein, 22; magnesium, 22; vitamin B12, 20; vitamin A value, 13; vitamin B6, 10; thiamin, 9; and almost all the vitamin D.

But with all this, dairy foods provided only 11% of the calories in our food supply. This means, of course, that dairy foods (excluding butter) do not qualify as "high energy" foods. That is not their bag. They are solidly nutritious without loading you with excess calories. Other foods -- high carbohydrate foods, for example, and fats -- are noted for their energy value. And we need them, too. Just as we need all the food groups.

My point is that by choosing a wide variety of foods we avoid overloading on foods of higher energy value than we need while perhaps neglecting many nutrients that we need from other foods.

Adults should follow this daily food guide: the milk group -- 2 or more glasses (or equivalent in other dairy foods); the meat group -- 2 or more servings; vegetables and fruits -- 4 or more servings; breads and cereals -- 4 or more servings. Children should get 3 or more glasses of milk; teenagers -- 4 or more glasses. This is the foundation for a good diet.

NOTE: As a service to our readers, we would like to begin a recipe exchange in this weekly column. If anyone would like to have a certain recipe, your request will be published in the column, and hopefully some other reader who has the recipe will mail it to the column for publication. Or if you have a favorite recipe to share, mail it to Cooking-Up, The Daily Standard, Box 100, Sikeston, Mo. 63801, along with your name and address.

Book Review

PATHS OF GLORY
by Humphrey Cobb
(Bard 16758/$1.65
221pp.)

Humphrey Cobb's classic anti-war novel about World War I, PATHS OF GLORY, is now available in a Bard edition from Avon Books. Upon its appearance in 1935, reviewers praised the novel about three soldiers made the scapegoat for their superiors' mistakes as "a masterpiece of propaganda that should be broadcast for the good of the world." The Bard edition contains an afterword by Warren Eyster in which he discusses the book's unique importance and its renewed significance today. Although many writers outstripped Cobb in literary talent, says Eyster, "no writer ever opposed the power structure more relentlessly than Cobb . . . Indeed, Cobb hated war to a degree that makes Remarque's All Quiet on The Western Front seem merely sentimental and current anti- Vietnam talk a kindergarten protest."

THE HOMECOMING
by Earl Hamner, Jr.
Avon 15149/$.95
144 pp.

Earl Hamner's THE HOMECOMING, about a Virginia mountain family during the depression, is the tender novel upon which the popular television series The Waltons is based. Both book and program have gotten rave reviews for their portrayal of unpretentious, loving, and genuine relationships. "A warmly human story suitable for every member of the family," says the Chattanooga Times; "Quite wonderful in every respect, beautiful in its conjuring up of a more innocent day," said the Boston Globe.

NO FLYING IN THE HOUSE
by Betty Brock
(Camelot 14613/$.95
139 pp.)

One day a tiny white dog appears before Mrs. Vancourt, a rich dowager. The dog announces that her name is Gloria and she needs a home for herself and young Annabel Tippens, who has been left in her care. How did a miniature dog happen to be raising a child? This mystery and many others are solved in the story that Publishers Weekly has called "a delicious fantasy . . . one of the undisputed charmers of the year."

THE LINDEN AFFAIR
by Martha Albrand
(Avon 15230/$.95
191pp.)

Lisa Linden confronts the father she has not seen since she was five years old, in Martha Albrand's latest Avon release, THE LINDEN AFFAIR. Kenneth Ward, a young American undercover agent, is convinced that the man released after fifteen years of imprisonment for anti- Nazi activities is not really Lisa's father, but a Soviet agent. His attempts to reveal this impostor and discover the whereabouts of Lisa's true father result in a tale containing all the elements of "suspense, excitement, and romance," according to Library Journal.

THE BREAKING POINT
by Daphne du Maurier
319 pp.)

With publication of THE BREAKING POINT, Daphne du Maurier's famous collection of short stories, Avon, who is her exclusive paperback publisher, will have a total of 17 of her titles in print. All of the stories in THE BREAKING POINT center around a theme which the author describes in this preface note:

There comes a moment in the life of every individual when reality must be faced. When this happens, it is as though a link between emotion and reason is stretched to the limit of endurance, and sometimes snaps.

Panthers, Mustangs make NPHS semifinals

WARDELL — Lilbourn and North Pemiscot climbed into the semifinals of the annual Mustang Invitational basketball tournament Tuesday night, displaying run and run offenses and tough defenses in their respective season openers.

Coach David McMahon's NPHS cagers roared to a 23-10 first period lead and never trailed in the contest, that was dominated by fouls as 59 were issued in the 72-49 game.

Joe Jennings flipped in 18 points and Ray Norris and Jerry Stewart contributed 12 and 11 respectively in pacing the Mustangs balanced offensive attack. Keith Henson scored 19 for Campbell's top effort.

Edward and Claude McFerren teamed for 30 points, scoring 16 and 14 respectively in the Panthers 75-63 decision over the Delta C-7 Chargers.

Lilbourn opened up a 17-12 first period lead and added to the margin in each of the next two quarters before the Chargers claimed a 20-18 edge in the final period.

Coach Larry Warren's Panthers displayed a lot of quickness and hustle, as did the Chargers, who were just out manned on the boards.

Tournament action resumes Thursday.

Braves upset AHS

MORLEY — "We just outhustled them", said a jubilant coach Ronnie Cookson after the Scott County Central Braves upset the Advance Hornets 73-59 here Tuesday night in the first outing of the season for both teams.

If this game is any indication of the kind of season were going to have this year it's going to be a big year for some teams.

There's probably not anyone in Southeast Missouri who thought the little Braves would beat the Hornets but they did.

Scott Central simply outplayed the Braves in every aspect of the game, defense, offense and hustle.

The Braves broke the Advance press and went in for the easy shot. Kenny Bright was a stalwart on defense and scored 21 points in the game. The Braves used a press defense to force numerous turnovers which spelled defeat for the Hornets.

Scott Central jumped out to a 17-8 first period lead and never let up as the Hornets tried to battled back. Advance scored 17 in the second period to 15 for the Braves.

Coach Carroll Cookson tried every thing in the book to overcome the lead but everything failed as Scott Central kept the pressure on in the third period scoring 20 points to 16 for the Hornets. The Hornets coach used several combinations but none worked effectively.

Last year's leading B team scorer, Jo David Cummins was held to only nine points in the game. 6-5 David Tropf hit 14 and Lanpher scored 13 for the Hornets.

The Braves were led by Bright with 21 and Robert Coo, a 5-9 forward hit 20.

Advance squeaked by in the B game 42-37 with Danny Long scoring 18 points. Otto Porter hit 17 for the Braves.

Why mothers get and stay grey!

Because the dog always vomits on the carpeting at the same time the guests ring the door bell.

Because the commode always flushes perfectly as soon as the plumber arrives.

Because the cassarole that was such a success two weeks ago offends everyone's palate this week.

Because the dress you bought on sale last winter and haven't worn, doesn't fit this winter.

Because the oldest son will go clear across the room and completely out of his way to "accidentally" knock against the youngest son when passing to promote a fight — and vice versa.

Because the oven only goes hay wire when you've just slipped in a cake.

Because the check gets larger and the sacks get smaller at the grocery store.

Because the appointment with the dentist, the barber, and the doctor are all discovered to be on the same morning.

Because the closet you cleaned out last week is already filled again this week.

Because the tulips you planted so lovingly last fall got eaten by moles.

Because the only time you lay down for a nap the phone rings.

Because the old grey mare just ain't what she use to be — that's called growing older and I'm afraid I'm not doing it very gracefully!

Nixon gets advice from GOP senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifteen Republican senators have lectured President Nixon on ways to cleanse his administration of the Watergate scandals.

Their advice ranged from universal pleas for complete disclosure to suggestions, which Nixon rejected, that he resign or submit himself voluntarily to the impeachment process.

In two hours of free-wheeling conversation Tuesday night, the President promised to make full disclosure of all facts bearing on the Watergate controversy and other scandals that have beseiged his administration.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., of Tennessee, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said Nixon did not respond to his request that the President meet with the panel in a private but on-the-record question-and-answer session.

Other senators said Nixon's responses were frank, candid and thoughtful. Baker said: "I've never witnessed a more frank presidential conversation."

Following the session the President and Mrs. Nixon made an unexpected visit to a party for Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

It was the President's second surprise outing in less than a week and at the party he played a chorus of "Happy Birthday" on the piano for the 75-year-old Bennett. Party guests included eight of the senators who had met earlier with Nixon.

At the earlier session senator after senator said they stressed the need for disclosure if the administration is to regain some of the credibility they said has been lost in recent weeks over such issues as missing or non-existent tape recordings of presidential conversations about Watergate.

All Republican senators have been invited to meet with Nixon to offer advice and to ask questions.

Most of those in the Tuesday night session came from the beginning of the Senate alphabet. Most of them said few questions of substance bearing on the facts of Watergate were asked.

Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett of Oklahoma said Nixon appeared to be ready to make full disclosure "concerning all the accusations that have been made against him."

Bartlett and New Mexico Sen. Peter V. Domenici said the President left no doubt that disclosures will include the facts behind favorable treatment alleged to have been given ITT and the dairy industry in return for large contributions to Nixon's re-election campaign.

They also said the President appears prepared to offer a more complete accounting of the acquisition of his estates at San Clemente, Calif. and Key Biscayne, Fla.

But they and other senators said the President still is searching for a forum in which disclosure can be made without interference with court proceedings before Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica.

Sen. Bill Brock of Tennessee said the President confirmed accounts given by White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., on how it was that two key presidential Watergate conversations never were recorded.

Domenici said Nixon told the senators that one tape of a conversation between Nixon and former White House counsel John W. Dean III "will clearly indicate the President was accurate in saying Dean was mistaken in some of his Watergate testimony."

After the meeting, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., told reporters nothing was said to change his opinion that Nixon has been so badly hurt by Watergate that he should resign.

Brooke said he raised the possibility of resignation with the President and that Nixon had told him he would not take that step.

Sen. James L. Buckley, Con.R-N.Y., called the meeting, "a good step in the right direction."

"I had the opportunity of telling the President directly that the critical fact with which he must cope is not to satisfy a court under normal rules of evidence but to satisfy a deeply skeptical public," Buckley said.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney of Florida said nearly all senators present told the President he must make a full report to the country. Gurney, a member of the Watergate committee, complained that until now the White House response has been too little, too late.

Gurney said Nixon appeared to agree that such a report must be made but said no details were discussed and no commitments made Sen. J. Glenn Beall Jr., of Maryland, said it was "a free and open exchange which we have not had before."

Nixon plans to complete his series of meetings with all Republican members of Congress and some Democrats by the end of the week.

Regulations on drug testing announced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Mental Health Director Harold P. Robb has distributed revised rules for using state mental patients to test new drugs.

The new regulations were distributed Tuesday.

Robb's first set of rules were criticized by some commission members and mental health researchers as being too strict.

Robb said testing could resume when the hospitals show they are ready to comply with the regulations, approved by the mental health commission.

Robb suspended testing and prepared his first set of rules after the Church of Scientology in St. Louis obtained letters — some more than 10 years old — that the church group said indicated that proper consent may not have been obtained before a patient was put in a testing program.

Most of the testing was at the Missouri Institute of Psychiatry, operated by the University of Missouri. Some testing also was done at the St. Louis and Farmington State hospitals.

Under Robb's new regulation, all proposals for research projects in a state facility must first be presented to a six-man research committee, four of whom must be present.

The committee is composed of one person not connected with the facility who represents the consumer interests, a doctor, three qualified mental health professionals and the mental health division's human relations officer.

Any projects concerning mentally retarded or developmentally disabled patients must also be approved by the governor's advisory council on developmental disabilities.

After receiving approval from the committee, the project director must obtain "voluntary informed consent" from each patient to be involved.

Explanation of the project to the patient, a relative and a member of the facility's research committee must include such things as the length of testing, dangers or side effects and assurances that there will be no punichment if the patient refuses to participate.

A voluntary or competent patient over 21 may waive the right to have a relative or attorney present. Patients under 21 must have a parent or guardian present.

A court-appointed guardian must be obtained for any patient declared incompetent and committed to the hospital by a court. The committing court also must approve the guardian's decision.

Patients may withdraw from the project at any time.

The regulation says a patient will automatically be withdrawn if he is "distressed, reluctant or indicates refusal."

"Developing this new regulation has been distressing to people," Robb said. "I understand that changes are upsetting, and I am grateful to the people who gave us the benefit of their advice and opinion. This final revision incorporates many of those suggestions.

"It is necessary that we make every effort to guard patients' rights, and I think this regulation will adequately protect patients and researchers.

Rationing plan envisions WW 11 type program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's contingency plan for rationing gasoline envisions a World War II-type program supervised by 6,000 local boards which would dole out coupons to each motorist.

But just how much gasoline each motorist could expect still has not been decided.

The plan, developed by the Office of Emergency Prepardness and modified over the years, is one of various options now being considered by the Nixon administration if gasoline rationing is required.

Both John A. Love, director of President Nixon's Energy Policy Office, and Secretary of the Interior Rogers C.B. Morton have said that rationing may be needed early next year.

Basically, the contingency plan calls for issuance of rationing checks or coupons to all motor vehicle owners. There would be two kinds of coupons, one for essential, the other for nonessential use.

The plan at this stage does not answer the question in the minds of most motorists: how much fuel will each individual be entitled to. That decision will be left to the administration to determine as supply demands.

Kenneth Lay, deputy undersecretary of the interior, said Tuesday a basic individual ration of 10 to 15 gallons per week for each motorist "is the most likely range, at this point."

Lay also said "active consideration" was being given to an early extension of mandatory fuel allocations at the wholesale level, which already apply to heating oil, to include gasoline and other petroleum products.

Mandatory allocation, however, would control gasoline distribution only at the wholesale level and motorists would still be free to buy gasoline wherever they can find it, until direct consumer rationing comes along to set limits on their purchasing.

The government figures that the gasoline-rationing contingency program would cost an estimated $170 million a year, including about $64 million for staffing the local boards with two clerks apiece.

The coupons issued would be non-transferrable and a signature would be required when a sale was made.

the move of eighth and ninth grade students to the new building will take place over the Christmas holidays.

Air conditioning estimates indicated that it will cost the school system $35,000 to air condition both the Morehouse and Tanner Street schools, Harbin said. The cost is about $21,000 for individual room air conditioners and about $14,000 for installation.

Harbin also announced that extra milk prices will be reduced from eight cents to four cents on Nov. 19. The price was raised to eight cents after a federal subsidy program ended. The program is now back in effect, enabling the school system to lower prices on extra milk.

Director says no way for prison at Steele

JEFFERSON CITY— Missouri Department of Corrections director George Camp says there is no possibility of a proposed maximum security prison ever being built at Steele, despite the state's expenditure of thousands of dollars in planning funds and the community's expenses in attempting to locate the facility in Pemiscot County.

In a statement to The Daily Standard Tuesday, Camp said he feels sorry for the people in the Steele area who were looking forward to the institution being built there and that he knows it is a great disappointment to them.

However, Camp stated that there are other factors to be taken into consideration to meet Missouri's needs in regard to maximum security institutions.

Camp said he regretted all the time, money and energy that had been expended on the Steele project.

"Steele is simply not the place to locate a maximum security prison," he added.

The Pemiscot County city was selected by former corrections director Fred Wilkinson as the site for a 500- prisoner, maximum security unit after a wide search throughout the state.

Camp, who conferred with Wilkinson after being named by Gov. Chrisstopher S. Bond to the prison post, said he was convinced that no political considerations were involved in Wilkinson's selection of Steele. The Pemiscot County site came under heavy political fire during last year's gubernatorial campaign from both Bond and Democratic nominee Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis. Both pledged that, if elected, the selection would be changed.

Camp quoted Wilkinson as saying Steele was selected because of level ground, the willingness of the community to provide services and the availability of choice land.

Camp said that while these considerations were important, his own philosophy was that prisons should be located closer to prisoners' homes to facilitate visiting by relatives. He said he also felt that prisons should be "highly visible," in order that the public does not forget the correctional efforts being made.

The new prison director is proposing the construction of three regional- type institutions, one near Jefferson City and the other two near St. Louis and Kansas City.

1973, he said only 2,500 acres of county land had been expected to be surveyed.

"At present, Sikeston has been completed and approximately 3,000 acres of land have been surveyed," he stated.

If the survey continues this rapidly, Harlow said less money will be needed than expected in the beginning.

He told the mayors that donations are still being sought to cover the district's share of the salary for a district employe.

He said the County Court has agreed to pay the remaining portion of the salary for a district employe, but the court wants to know how much the towns were going to donate.

Several towns have already donated funds including Sikeston, $1,000; Chaffee, $300; Oran, $200; and Benton, $100.

Harlow said anyone who wants to make a contribution should mail it to Soil and Water Conservation Service, Box 165, Benton.

He added that donations are being received from a lot of different sources which eases the burden on the towns. "We have received approximately $10,000 from various clubs and organizations," he said.

Riley waives indictment on possession charge

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Charles Riley, 42, of 1115 S. Sprigg is to appear in Federal District Court here at 9:30 a.m. Thursday on a charge of possession of an illegal firearm — a sawed- off shotgun.

Riley was in court Monday with his attorney and waived a federal grand jury indictment, permitting the court to file its own information. He is accused of having the gun in his possession at his home address on Oct. 31.

The attorney said that, for now, his client would enter a plea of innocent and appear later in the week. He said time is needed to file pretrial motions.

At his arraignment Monday, Luther F. Swan, 55, of Poplar Bluff pleaded guilty to one count of an indictment charging him with selling firearms without a license. Judge James H. Meredith set sentencing for Nov. 19. A second count of the indictment was dropped.

The indictment charged Swan with selling the guns from March 20 to July 19, 1972 at Poplar Bluff.

Sentencing of Dr. George W. Ringland, a Cape Girardeau osteopath, on drug charges has been moved to Federal Court in St. Louis, where it will be imposed Dec. 3 at 10 a.m. Sentencing was previously set for Nov. 19 and was changed at the request of the defendant, the court order stated.

A jury here Nov. 3 found Dr. Ringland guilty on one count of illegal drug sales and four counts of failure to account for drugs in his possession. The doctor was ruled innocent on three additional counts of selling drugs illegally.

Judge Meredith Monday denied Dr. Ringland's motion for a new trial.

New ambulance law will present challenge to area

PORTAGEVILLE — Phillip Kelley, area community development specialist at the Delta Center in Portageville, says adjusting to the new ambulance law is quite difficult and presents "a real challenge for citizens of the Bootheel."

Kelley explained in a news release issued Monday that most of the detail required by law is not spelled out and will be issued as regulations from the State Division of Health.

"Specific licensing procedures for ambulances, attendants, attendant - drivers and mobile emergency medical technicians must be included in the regulations," he added.

In a rural area like Southeast Missouri, most ambulance service has been provided by funeral homes, Kelley said, and most funeral homes in this area have set Jan. 1, 1974, as the date they will discontinue ambulance service due to the added costs of complying with the new law.

The new law is primarily a licensing law, he said.

"Since the law does not require people to utilize the service if an emergency occurs on private property, it seems to be designed for emergency service on highways and in other public places," he added.

Reference in the law is made to the American College of Surgeon's list of essential equipment for ambulances, Kelley said. However, this is to be considered as a guide. Specific details of the requirements for ambulance vehicles will be included in the Division of Health regulations.

Since there has been considerable confusion on what the law does and does not do, Kelley offered suggestions at what will be required, but he cautioned that since much of the detail has not yet been spelled out, his comments should not be considered to be the final word.

The law will require licensing of people operating ambulances, as well as ambulance vehicles, which will also have to be inspected, Kelley said.

Other probable requirements include insurance on ambulances covering people and property, a specific list of equipment in the ambulance vehicle, including communications equipment, provision for other vehicles to help in case of major disaster.

Also, licensing of people operating ambulances as mobile emergency medical technicians, attendants, attendant- drivers, apprentices, registered nurses or physicians will be covered, and records will be required on trips the ambulances makes.

Kelley pointed out that the law does not require all that has been said it will require. He added that the following requirements are not in the law:

The law does not require the patient to be taken to the nearest hospital.

It does not require a licensed mobile medical technician with 200 hours of training to be in each ambulance.

Funeral homes are not required to get out of the ambualnce business, nor does the law require ambulances or attendants to be licensed before July 1974. People in the ambulance business may have up to six months after that date to fulfil requirements for licensing.

No business, individual, county, town or other political subdivision is required to use the ambulance service if an accident occurs on private property, for himself or for his employes.

The State Division of Health is not required to set ambulance charges but will be required to review rates set by ambulance services to see that they are reasonable.

Charleston may extend limits

CHARLESTON — The City Council, in a brief session Tuesday night, heard a report on disaster relief funds, approved a resolution calling for an extension of the city limits and adopted a special tax assessment ordinance.

Acting city manager Willis Downs informed the council that the city had been notified by letter from Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps that its application for federal finance assistance under the major disaster declaration had been approved in the amount of $28,367. Federal funds, approved by the office of emergency preparedness, will pay for repairs on streets and storm sewers, damaged by flooding last spring.

A resolution calling for the extension of the south city limits, located northwest of Interstate 57, was approved. The proposal will probably be included on the ballot in next April's city election. The property, owned by the Charleston Development Co., will be zoned for commercial use.

A bid of $5,599 from Courtesy Ford of Charleston for a two-ton truck to be used by the street department was accepted. Other bids included Galemore Motor Co. of Charleston, $6,209.84 and Simmons Equipment Co. of Charleston, $6,233.14.

Also accepted was a bid of $9,393,99 from Seymore and Seymore Trucking Co. of Charleston for material and labor on the installation of storm sewers near the Brown Shoe Co. John Cowan of Sikeston bid $9,542.30 and Paul Montgomery of Poplar Bluff submitted a bid of $12,850.

An ordinance levying a special assessment of $2.70 a front foot to property owners in the north two blocks of Heggie Street for street paving was adopted.

The Council approved the withdrawal of $36,785.90 in time deposit certificates for deposit to the general fund for operating expenses.

A request for a trailer permit for lot 13, block two of Deal Street was granted William Farquhar.

The council also approved a request for the police to check the Chamber of Commerce building on Plant Road, formerly occupied by Basler Electric Co. once every 24 hours for insurance purposes.

Downs was authorized to seek prices on hams to be given city employes and officials for Christmas.

The Council tabled action on a purchase of an auxiliary power system for the city hall until a full council was present.

A $100 contribution will be made to the Chamber of Commerce to be used toward costs of the Christmas parade.

Pemiscot farmer is first to receive loan

CARUTHERSVILLE — The nation's first Farmers Home Administration guaranteed loan under the Rural Development Act of 1972 was received recently in Pemiscot County.

The conditional commitment for $42,500 was received by Roy Cooper Jr., Farmers Home Administration county supervisor for Pemiscot County, and presented to Francis Waggoner, manager of the Caruthersville Federal Land Bank Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Duncan of Bragg City Route One will receive the loan from the Federal Land Bank to purchase and develop an 80- acre farm near Bragg City. Duncan also farms other land in the county, and Mrs. Duncan is a teacher in the Kennett school system.

Under the new program, FHA guarantees the loan to the other lender. At this time, guaranteed loans are available under the farm ownership, soil and water, recreational operating and emergency loan programs. In the near future, rural housing loans will also be available under the program.

Under farm ownership guaranteed loans, the maximum limit is $100,000 with a repayment period of not more than 40 years. The borrower must be eligible under FHA regulations, and the farm must be a family-sized unit.

Authority to make the loans was granted Oct. 29. "The speed with which this loan was handled illustrates the excellent working relationship between FHA and Federal Land Bank in Pemiscot County," Harry Littleton of Sikeston, FHA district supervisor, said.

All federal or state supervised lending institutions are eligible to participate in the program, and other lenders or individuals may make application to Farmers Home Administration for approval.

Farmers Home Administration is the credit agency of the United States Department of Agriculture serving rural America with over 1,600 county office units.

Merideth earns driving award

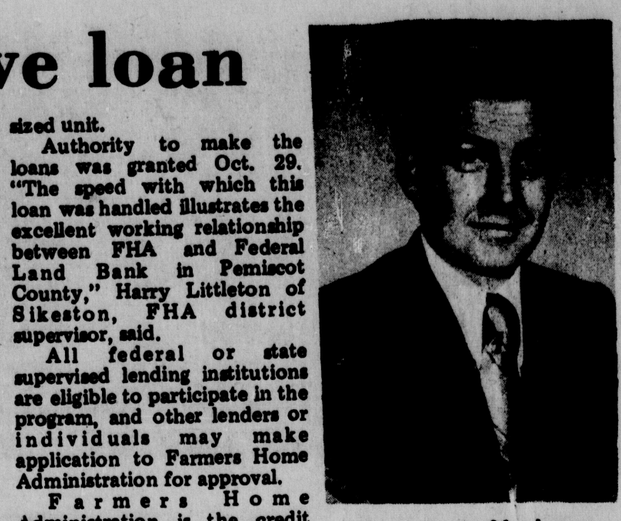
Ken Merideth, MFA Oil Co. bulk plant manager in Sikeston, recently received the MFA Insurance Co. Safe Driver Award. Jim Thompson, Sikeston, MFA Oil Co. District Sales Manager, presented the award, which was for six years of safe driving.

MFA Insurance Co. established the awards program for the purpose of recognizing outstanding contributions to public safety by truck drivers. Awards are presented to drivers who have proven their skill in avoiding traffic accidents. A man earns his first award by driving 24 consecutive months without having a chargeable accident. Additional years are added as they are earned.



Gene R. Aufdenberg

Businessman to serve on board

Gene R. Aufdenberg II, a Sikeston and New Madrid businessman, was elected to the board of directors of Farmers Mutual Insurance Co. of Sikeston. The action was taken at the board's quarterly meeting on Nov. 1.

A 1953 graduate of Sikeston High School, Aufdenberg returned to Sikeston in 1971, when he and his brother, Jerry Aufdenberg, became co- owners of Aufdenberg Equipment Co. John Deere dealer in the Sikeston Area. He later became owner of New Madrid Tractor Co. in New Madrid, John Deere dealer for that area.

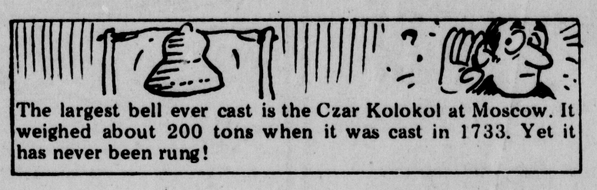
Prior to his return to Sikeston, Aufdenberg was prominent in civic and business affairs at Brownsville, Tenn. He was an organizer of Tennessee Academy and a member of the Brownsville school board and assumed a leadership role in numerous other civic and church activities in the Brownsville area.

After an honorable discharge from the Army, Aufdenberg graduated with a degree in agriculture from Mississippi State University at Starkville, Miss.

In its 53rd year of operation, Farmers Mutual is a statewide property insurance company with agents in more than 80 Missouri communities. The home office of the company is in Sikeston.

Aufdenberg, his wife Alice and their three children live at 901 Moore Ave.

Benjamin Banneker was a Negro surveyor who served on Pierre L'Enfant's commission which designed and surveyed the street layout of Washington, D.C., in 1791. The World Almanac recalls. In 1793, Banneker proposed that a Secretary of Peace be appointed to the President's cabinet.



The largest bell ever cast is the Czar Kolokol at Moscow. It weighed about 200 tons when it was cast in 1733. Yet it has never been rung!

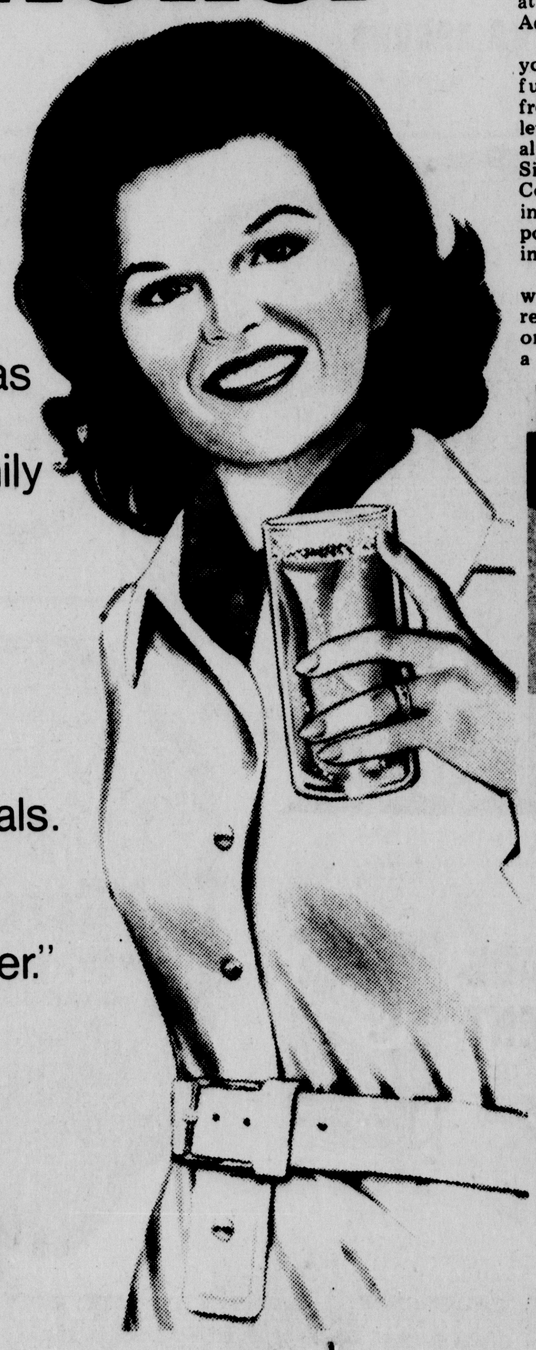
ANITA BRYANT SAYS:

"Really, with the price of 100% pure orange juice from Florida so low... why buy imitations."



According to official government figures* the average price of all brands and forms of 100% pure orange juice from Florida is about the same today as it was back in September of 1971. Just one reason why you should serve all the orange juice your family wants. If you need any other reasons – remember:

- It's 100% pure orange juice – no chemical or synthetic additives.
- It has a lot more nutrition than just Vitamin C. It's a NATURAL blend of B-Vitamins and minerals.
- It's a NATURAL "pick-me-up" because its NATURAL sugars make it a NATURAL energizer."

Lecture to be given at Ramada Thursday

Mind control will be the topic of a lecture to be presented twice Thursday at Ramada Inn.

The lectures are scheduled at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. Admission will be charged.

"The key to using more of your mind is to learn to function at lower brain frequencies, the meditation levels which science calls the alpha frequencies," says Jose Silva, founder of Silva Mind Control, which began research in Laredo, Tex., to see if it was possible to increase a person's intelligence quotient factor.

As research in alpha brain waves continued, Silva reportedly discovered that not only could IQ be increased, but a person trained to enter the lower brain wave levels could even control certain areas of the autonomic nervous system, heart beat, respiration, blood pressure, etc.

Some students have reported that, with mind control, one could banish pain, accelerate healing and eliminate insomnia and migraine headaches, as well as untold psychosomatic problems.

Since the findings about the alpha studies were released to the general public in 1966, about 200,000 people reportedly have taken the course in 10 countries.

Lecture spokesmen say that by directing and controlling the powers of the mind, a person can learn better and faster, as well as learn to improve skills such as concentration, memory, creative imagination and verbal and artistic expression.

'Charley Varrick' now at Mall

"Charley Varrick", now showing at Mall Theater, was filmed during the summer of 1972, according to Mrs. Maxine Scott of Sikeston, who was on location at the time with her daughter, Jacqueline Scott, who co-stars with Walter Matthau in the fast moving film.

Miss Scott plays Matthau's wife Nadine, who drives the getaway car when the two of them knock over banks, just small ones that are easier to rob, and the legal heat that follows a paltry $15,000 to $25,000 heist dissipates quickly.

Purely by accident, Charley and Nadine make it big in Tres Cruces, N. M., when they rob the Western Fidelity Bank, a conduit for Mafia money being shipped out of the country. In the space of a few minutes, the robbery nets $750,000.

That kind of money in that kind of bank spells only one thing: the Syndicate. How and whether Charley can outwit and outmaneuver the mob, the law and his fatally brash sidekick provide this Don Siegel film with a narrative excitement that more than matches his most recent box office success, "Dirty Harry".

"Charley Varrick" is rated PG (parental guidance suggested). Some material may not be used for pre-teen-agers."

At Malco Twin Cinema II is "The Valachi Papers", starring Charles Bronson. Rated R. Starting Friday at Cinema II is "Jesus Christ Superstar", a musical presentation starring Ted Neely. Rated G (general audience).

Miss Scott co-stars

Walter Matthau, left, comforts his injured wife, portrayed by Jacqueline Scott, formerly of Sikeston, who co-stars in the film, "Charley Varrick", now playing at Mall Theater.

Now playing at the downtown Malone Theater is "The Misadventures of Merlin Jones" and "Nikki, Wild Dog of the North". Both films are rated G.

"Trick Baby", starring Kiel Martin and Mel Stewart will begin Sunday at the Malone. The movie based on the noval by Iceberg Slim, is rated R.

Meatless supper: turn hot cooked cornmeal mush into a shallow baking dish and top with tomato sauce and grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven until bubbly hot. Use homemade tomato sauce prepared with canned tomatoes, onion, green pepper, celery, carrot and seasonings.

Baker in new film

Former resident heads Land Co.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A former Sikeston, Mo., man has been president for seven years of a company that owns four per cent of all the private land in Arizona, but yet is little known in that state.

George Marvin Rayburn of Phoenix, Ariz., heads the New Mexico and Arizona Land Co., which owns 590,000 acres, 460,000 of which are in Arizona. The company was chartered in 1908 in Arizona.

Rayburn, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Rayburn of Sikeston, served as vice president and secretary-treasurer of Frisco Railroad Co. in St. Louis before moving to Arizona. Frisco owns a little more than half the stock of the land company and, since its start, has supplied managerial services.

Rayburn had been president of New Mexico and Arizona Land Co. since 1966, serving simultaneously as vice president, secretary and treasurer of Frisco. He resigned the Frisco posts in February 1972 to devote full time to the land company when increased activities necessitated the change.

George M. Rayburn

For years, New Mexico and Arizona Land Co. contented itself with grazing leases to ranchers.

The company now owns 1,900 acres in Winslow where a major shopping center is planned for next spring. In Flagstaff, the company has 48 apartments and zoning approval for more.

Other land is being used for a development in a light industrial area, a retail facility, irrigated farms and others. The company also has mineral rights to one per cent of the total area of Arizona and New Mexico, and is the world's largest producer of petrified wood, according to one vice president.

Rayburn is a 1937 graduate of Sikeston High School and a 1941 graduate of Washington University in St. Louis.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Little Orchestra Society season will be three concerts in a series entitled "The Classic to the Contemporary."

Opening night will be Mozart's "Idomeneo;" this third opera seria of Mozart's will be performed in its original 1781 form. The second evening will be Delius's "Idyll" with Bartok's dramatic one-act opera, "Bluebeard's Castle," sung in English.

Featured work on the final evening will be Elliott Carter's "Double Concerto for Harpsichord and Piano." Carter won the Pulitzer Prize for Music in 1973 for his "String Quartet No. 3."

What's the law?

The case of the amorous cadet

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Willie didn't like the diet at the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy. While vegetarians live without meat, cadets at the academy were required to live without love. In fact, not only was there a rule against cadets marrying, upon entering the institution they were obliged to agree specifically not to wed until after graduation.

Unable to stand the strain of the amourless diet, Willie finally married his curvacious girl friend. After the bride was given away, however, Willie was sent away. His marriage came to the attention of Academy officials and he was bounced from the institution.

Taking exception to his dismissal, Willie took the matter to court.

"The dismissal was absolutely proper," insisted the Academy officials. "Willie clearly violated our rules and got married despite his agreement not to do so."

"While love holds no bait for a celibate," responded Willie, "I'm no celeibate. I'm a red- blooded, girl- loving American boy. And any rule or agreement that says I can't get married can't be legal or binding."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the dismissal of amorous Willie?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that there was no compelling government necessity shown to justify a rule restraining Merchant Marine cadets from marrying. What's more, concluded the judge, the government could not contractually require a cadet to give up his constitutional right to marry.

COOKING-UP

By NADINE S. TOWNSEND

It's cookie baking time again! Most of take a vacation from baking during the hot summer, but with cool fall days, kids looking for after-school snacks and the holidays just around the corner, the urge to bake returns.

Cookie recipes featured this week -- some new, some old -- are all easy to make. In fact, my 13-year- old daughter specializes in making the brownies and peanut butter cookies.

A variety of flavors are included, so try them; and you're sure to find a family favorite.

ORANGE SLICE COOKIES

Cookie
4 eggs
3 tbsp. cold water
2 cups brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
2 cups flour
1 cup chopped nutes
1 cup coconut
1 lb. orange slice gumdrop-type candies, sliced

Icing
1 stick oleo
¼ cup orange juice
1 box confectioners sugar
1 tsp. orange rind
dash of salt

Beat together eggs with cold water. Add sugar and then salt and flour. Add nuts, coconut and cut up orange slice candies.

Bake in a 12x15- inch pan for 35 minutes at 350 degrees. When partially cool, ice with icing. Cut into bars.

FAVORITE PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

2 cups flour
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
1 cup soft shortening
1 cup brown sugar, packed
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup peanut butter
2 tbsp. vanilla
1 tsp. water

Sift together flour, baking soda and salt. Put remaining ingredients into large bowl, beat for two minutes, scraping bowl and beaters. Add sifted flour mixture and beat one minute.

Drop by teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Press lightly with fork which has been dipped in flour. Bake for 10-12 minutes at 325 degrees. Yields approximately seven dozen.

ANGEL COOKIES

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup white granulated sugar
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups flour
1 tsp. cream of tartar
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
½ cup chopped pecans

Cream butter and shortening and sugars. Add remaining ingredients in order given.

Chill dough, then form into balls the size of walnuts or smaller.

Dip top half in cold water, then in sugar. Place on greased cookie sheet, sugar side up. Leave about an inch between cookies as they spread in baking. Bake at 425 degrees. Yields approximately four dozen.

BROWNIES-A-PLENTY

4 squares unsweetened chocolate
¾ cup oleo
6 whole eggs
3 cups sugar
2 cups flour
½ tsp. salt
½ cup chopped nuts
2 tsp. vanilla

Melt chocolate and oleo. Beat eggs and add sugar. Mix flour and salt, then add to egg and sugar mixture. Stir in oleo, chocolate, nuts and vanilla.

Bake in two oiled shallow pans 12-15 minutes at 450 degrees. Cool in pan and cut into squares. Store in tightly covered container.

PUMPKIN COOKIES

1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup cooked or canned pumpkin
½ cup oil
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cup flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. ginger
(Note: 1¼ tsp. pumpkin pie spice may be substituted for the three spices listed above)
1 cup raisins
½ cup chopped nuts.

In mixing bowl beat together sugar, pumpkin, oil and vanilla. Sift together dry ingredients; add and stir until smooth. Blend in raisins and nuts.

Drop by spoonful on greased baking sheet. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes three to four dozen. No eggs needed in these moist, soft cookies.

FROZEN CANDIED FRUIT COOKIE

1 cup oleo
1 cup powdered sugar
1 egg
2½ cups flour
¼ tsp. cream of tartar
½ cup pecans, chopped
½ cup chopped candied fruit
1 cup whole candied cherries

Cream oleo and sugar together; beat in the egg. Stir in dry ingredients; blend in pecans, fruit and cherries.

Form into small rolls. Wrap and freeze.

Slice very thin. Bake on greased cookie sheet for 6-8 minutes at 375 degrees. Remove from cookie sheet and cool on rack.

CARAMEL NUT SLICES

1 cup soft shortening
2 cups brown sugar, packed
2 eggs
3½ cups flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking soda
1 cup finely chopped nuts

Mix well shortening, sugar and eggs. Sift together flour, salt and baking soda. Stir into shortening, sugar and egg mixture. Add nuts.

Shape in two rolls two inches across. Chill. Heat oven to 400 degrees. Slice dough 1/8 inch thick. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet 8-10 minutes. Makes about 12 dozen.

Dough keeps in refrigerator several weeks. Slice when needed. Chop nuts fine for easy slicing of roll. Cookies spread very little during baking, so place fairly close together on cookie sheet.

How to roast your Thanksgiving turkey

TO ROAST TURKEY:

Remove plastic bag, remove neck and giblets from cavities, rinse turkey and pat dry. Cook neck and giblets for broth and for flavoring dressing and giblet gravy.

Stuff turkey loosely with favorite stuffing, allowing 3/4 cup stuffing per pound of oven-ready weight.

Fasten down legs by tying or tucking under skin band and skewer neck skin to back, twist akimbo under bird.

Place on rack in shallow roasting pan, breast side up. Brush with butter, and if roast-meat thermometer is used, insert into the thick part of thigh.

Turkey is done when:

(a) Roast-meat thermometer registers 180-185 degrees F.
(b) Thick part of drumstick feels soft when pressed with thumb and forefinger.
(c) Drumstick and thigh move easily.

Time chart for roasting stuffed turkey in preheated 325 degree oven:

Because turkeys vary from one to another due to conformation, variety, etc., cooking times can be only approximate. Because of this it would be well to allow an extra half hour of roasting time in case the turkey needs that extra cooking. Check for doneness during last hour of roasting.

| Ready-To-Cook Weight | Approximate Cooking Time |
|---|---|
| 6 lbs. | 3 hours |
| 8 lbs. | 3-1/2 hours |
| 12 lbs. | 4-1/2 hours |
| 16 lbs. | 5-1/2 hours |
| 20 lbs. | 6-1/4 hours |

DIRECTIONS FOR CARVING

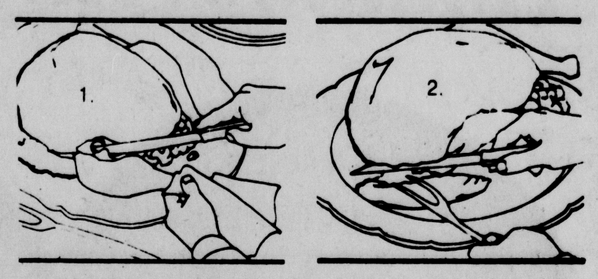
- Let turkey stand 15 to 20 minutes before carving.
- With knife or scissors, cut band of skin holding legs.
- Place turkey in front of carver along with carving knife, long pronged fork, paper napkin and dinner plates.



Grasp drumstick. Place knife between thigh and body of turkey and cut through skin to joint. Remove entire leg by pulling out and back using point of knife to disjoint it. Separate thigh and drumstick at joint. Remove meat from drumstick and thigh.

Insert fork firmly into upper wing to steady turkey. With knife make a long cut above wing joint through to body frame. If desired, wing can be disjointed from body.

Slice straight down with an even stroke beginning halfway up the breast. When knife reaches cut above wing bone, slice will fall free.

Continue slicing white meat by starting cut at a higher point each time until crest of bone is reached.

Homemade goodies are the best!

This year send the sweetest of all holiday greetings from your kitchen for enjoyment now and later. Select easy recipes -- Cranberry Strawberry Jam and Citrus Jelly, for example -- using seasonal fruit and liquid fruit pectin. Perfect for gift- giving in festive wrappings to add a gala touch.

Gifts of sharing -- gifts that signify time you've spent creating them -- that's what makes Christmas meaningful. Weeks of preparation and anticipation gain momentum as festively wrapped packages arrive on the holiday scene. Why not add a new dimension to shopping lists with creative gifts from your kitchen this year. It's another way of keeping an eye on the budget, too.

Select a few recipes you know will be rave successes. Citrus Jelly, for example, that's a breeze to make and "so inexpensive." Simply round up the ingredients: oranges, lemons, sugar, and Certo Fruit Pectin. Just follow recipe directions using the short boil method. This way, none of the delicate fruit flavor has a chance to evaporate in steam, yet consistency and set will be just right.

A second recipe -- Cranberry and Strawberry Jam -- marries the flavor of fresh cranberries with frozen strawberries. This tasty blend is sure to enhance the traditional holiday dinner, so keep a few jars in your own cupboard.

Show off your gifts with an artful touch. Begin now to save empty glass jars with tight-fitting lids to use as containers for your jam and jelly. Spray-paint the lids, or decorate with fancy gold doilies and seals. Add a sprinkle of glitter, crown with sprigs of green or ripples of ribbons.

CRANBERRY STRAWBERRY JAM

4 cups prepared fruit (2 cups fresh cranberries and 2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen strawberries in quick thaw pouch
5½ cups (2 lb. 6 oz.) sugar
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Grind 2 cups cranberries. Thaw strawberries as directed on package. Combine ground cranberries with thawed strawberries and measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the jam. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit in saucepan. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses and cover at once with 1/8 inch hot paraffin. Or use glasses with tight- fitting lids. Makes about 6½ cups or 9 (6-fl. oz.) glasses.

Note: Cranberries may be chopped in an electric blender, if desired. Place in blender a few at a time so that the blades are just covered. Turn from low to high until berries are finely chopped (not pureed).

CITRUS JELLY

2 cups orange juice (6 medium oranges)
¼ cup lemon juice (2 medium lemons)
3½ cups (1½ lb.) sugar
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

First prepare the juice. Squeeze and strain the juice from 6 oranges and 2 lemons. Measure 2 cups of orange juice and ¼ cup lemon juice into a large saucepan.

Then make the jelly. Thoroughly mix sugar into juice in saucepan. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. At once stir in fruit pectin. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon, and pour quickly into glasses and cover at once with 1/8 inch hot paraffin. Or use glasses with tight- fitting lids. Makes 3¼ cups or about 4 (6-fl. oz.) glasses.

Note: Jelly may be slow in setting.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Prompt consideration of proposals is assured

WASHINGTON, D.C. — As we approach winter this year, increased demands for fuel and anticipated import reductions have brought us to the edge of a major energy shortage. Without complete nationwide cooperation, the shortage can only grow more serious.

In Missouri, natural gas, propane and heating oil shortages threaten to close industries and put people out of work. So far, I have heard from 21 companies that have written, wired or called that they face impending shutdowns.

Truckers and airlines also expect shortages. Truckers have a need for 15 percent more diesel fuel this winter than last, yet they expect to receive 15 percent less. Airlines have already cut back the number of domestic flights, and will probably have to cut further.

On November 7, in a televised address on the energy emergency facing this Nation, the President called on all Americans to join in conservation measures to reduce fuel consumption and asked for programs to increase our energy supply.

We support this effort. Thermostats in my office have been reduced to 68 degrees and we are carrying out this worthwhile conservation measure in our homes.

For some ten months, many of us in the Senate and the House have been deeply concerned and have acted to provide the President with additional tools to deal with energy problems. These actions include the Eagleton Amendment to the Economic Stabilization Act which provided the authority for the Administration to implement both the mandatory and voluntary petroleum allocation program under which we are now operating.

At this time additional legislation is being considered in both the Senate and the House to further spell out authority and direction for mandatory allocation of petroleum products.

By the time this letter reaches Missouri, we expect the Trans- Alaska Pipeline bill authorizing rights- of- way across Federal lands and insuring protection of the environment, will have been passed and sent to the President for signature. With this authority, the Alaskan pipeline should be in operation by 1977 and by 1980 it should carry 2 million barrels of oil a day from the North Alaskan slope reserves which contain at least 10 billion barrels of oil.

Last May the Senate passed S. 70 to establish a White House Council on Energy Policy with responsibility for coordination and direction of the more than 60 Federal agencies involved in energy matters.

The Council would also be responsible for preparation of a much needed long- range national energy plan to be updated every year.

Another bill, S. 1283, which I co- sponsored, is the proposed National Energy Research and Development Policy Act. This bill would set a national goal to make the United States self- sufficient in energy by 1983 through development and utilization of available domestic resources.

To achieve self- sufficiency, the Energy Research and Development bill would call for creation of five Federal-industry corporations to speed research activities and action in (1) coal gasification, (2) shale oil production, (3) advanced power cycles, (4) geothermal resources and (5) coal liquification.

S. 1283 would also authorize additional funding for research and development in solar energy, fusion processes, low- head hydroelectric power, electrical energy storage methods, tidal power and utilization of waste products for fuels.

The Congress has assured the President that prompt attention will be given to his recent energy proposals as well as those on which the Congress has initiated action.

Failure to face the current energy shortage can only result in ever greater fuel shortages which in turn would increase the threat to the economic and physical security of our country.

Corn harvest hampered by rains

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Excessive rains and high water are causing problems in Missouri's corn harvest, a crop expert said Monday.

"As soon as corn is mature, the stalks become more susceptible to stalk rots and breakage," said Einar W. Palm, Extension plant pathology specialist at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

"This in turn can expose ears to rots that can become serious under high moisture conditions."

Palm said incidence of injury from rot varies from year to year, but is closely correlated with the amount of rain during August, September and October. Losses are usually greatest when rainfall during the period is above normal, as has been the case in Missouri this year.

Mrs. Bond offers conservation tips

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Christopher S. Bond, wife of the Missouri governor, offered some tips Tuesday to homemakers who want to conserve energy.

Mrs. Bond, who says she will use candles this Christmas instead of the traditional Christmas lights in the governor's mansion, made these recommendations:

—In using the oven, complete meals should be cooked rather than single dishes whenever possible, since this will maximize the use of heat. Food should be pre-thawed, a frozen roast, for example, requires 50 per cent more cooking time than one already defrosted.

—Except for baking pastries, there is no need to preheat the oven.

—Ovens, refrigerators and freezers should be checked to ensure they are not losing heat or cold. The doors should not be opened excessively.

—Refrigerators should be kept between 37 and 42 degrees. Non-forst-free freezers should be defrosted before one-fourth inch of ice accumulates to increase cooling capability.

—Lower your thermostat at night by several degrees. A night setback clock does this automatically. When you are away for several days or more, keep the inside temperature as low as you can without letting the water pipes freeze.

—Don't place objects in front of heating or cooling registers.

—Hot water conservation can be accomplished by fixing leaky faucets. Showers use much less water than tub baths.

Mrs. Bond said a faucet that drips once every second can waste as much as 2,500 gallons a year.

—Adequate insulation can save up to 15 per cent annually infuel costs. This includes weather-stripping under doors, insulation material in the attic, and the use of storm windows.

—Set the thermostat on your heating system as low as you can without sacrificing comfort. From 65-68 is suggested. Each degree over that uses 1.5 per cent more energy.

Heating systems should be checked at least annually for leaks. Furnace filters should be kept clean for maximum heating efficiency.

—Close the damper on your chimney when it is not in use. Otherwise, you could be losing valuable heat.

—Avoid wasting hot water while laundering. Use the cold and warm water settings as much as possible to cut down on the energy needed to heat water.

Get the right size appliance for your needs. A 20-pound washer may allow you to do a week's wash, thus using less power than several loads in a smaller machine. Wait until you have a full wash before using the machine.

—Fluorescent lighting is more economical and efficient than incandescent.

For example, Mrs. Bond says, a 40-watt fluorescent lamp produces more light than a 100-watt incandescent bulb at half the cost and will last almost 10 times longer.

—Match your pots and pans to the size of the stove burners. A pot that's too small for a burner will allow extra heat to escape. Put your pots and pans on the range before the heat is turned on so you won't waste heat.

Keep two recipes- files, one for recipes you have clipped, tried and found good; one for recipes you plan to try. A cluttered recipe file is discouraging to any cook!

Save 10¢. And let your taste settle the salad dressing question, once and for all.

In salad dressing, it's flavor that counts. Miracle Whip Salad Dressing's lively fresh flavor comes from a special blend of spices and a blending secret that is Kraft's alone. Miracle Whip is perfect just the way it is. Once you compare it with some of the "me-too" dressings we're sure you'll agree, no matter what, there's only one Miracle Whip. And that's why Miracle Whip makes a sandwich, a salad, seafood or cold cuts taste so fresh and lively. And why Miracle Whip is America's favorite salad dressing.

Alaskan oil reserves needed

Despite reservations which led me to vote against this bill when it was before the Senate, I will support the conference report to permit immediate exploitation of our Alaskan oil reserves. No domestic program today has greater priority, in my opinion, than dealing with our deepening energy crisis.

The Arab embargo of oil sales to this country, while not itself the cause of the problem, has sharply aggravated energy shortages which have been in prospect for some time. This winter we could fall as much as 20% short of what we require.

No longer can we talk about fuel problems in terms of inconvenience to motorists or higher prices at the gas pump. Today, quite literally, the economic and social well-being of this nation is on the line.

Even before the Middle East boycott, a study by the Stanford Research Institute concluded that "without immediate action on the energy front, there could be an ominous flattening of the economic growth rate of the United States between 1975 and 1980" from the 4.2% needed for a healthy economy to a mere 1.6%. That could mean a depression rate of unemployment in the range of 10 to 12 per cent.

MISSOURI SHUTDOWNS

Early warning signs of such an economic impact are already present. In the last three weeks, my office alone received complaints from 20 Missouri companies warning of shutdowns or cutbacks unless they can be assured of adequate supplies of gas and other fuels. For example, the refractories industry around Mexico and Vandalia is threatened with mass shutdowns, which would throw 4,000 Missourians out of work, because of the scarcity of propane and natural gas.

As one constituent put it, "What good does it do for me to have an allocation of heating fuel for my home if I don't have a job so I can pay the bill."

The energy emergency we now face might have been ameliorated had the Administration heeded Congressional warnings of more than a year ago when Missouri suffered fuel shortages. The attitude then was that it was a temporary and localized problem, not requiring Federal action. That was the position, too, when the Administration opposed my fuel allocation amendment last Spring.

In the days ahead, the American people will be asked to make many sacrifices and Congress will have difficult decisions as it attempts to balance competing objectives. Among other things that will mean rethinking some of the requirements and timetables of our environmental program.

In the long run, I am convinced that with wise use of existing energy resources and a concerted program to develop new ones we can avoid some of the calamitous events being predicted. But it will take the best we have as a people to meet the challenge.

1976 campaign gets early start

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 presidential campaign has already started, three years before the next election and one year after politicians vowed to prevent a repetition of the seemingly endless 1972 campaign.

If anything, the preliminary maneuvering is ahead of the 1972 pace with both parties involved in the initial soundings.

The basic reason for the advance planning is a belief that it takes several years to put together the kind of organization needed to capture the presidency, and a fear that any candidate who delays may find someone else has gotten there first.

The early start indicates that the long 1972 campaign of Sen. George McGovern, in which he declared formal candidacy a full year ahead of the usual starting time, may become the rule next time around.

Among the Republicans, Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Democrat John Connally of Texas and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois have started moving around the country, making speeches and extending their GOP contacts.

They will likely be active next year in the 1974 congressional and gubernatorial campaign, along with Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who has decided against seeking a third term. Already the favorite of GOP conservatives, he plans to launch an ambitious national speaking tour in 1975.

Percy is the farthest advanced towards a candidacy. He has announced formation of an Exploratory Committee to guide his decision and has started research on a possible race.

Other GOP possibilities such as Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson have received valuable television exposure but have yet to make any overt moves toward candidacy.

Among Democrats, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington is the most active. Some say he never stopped campaigning after his unsuccessful 1972 bid.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota says he is interested, has been traveling around a lot and is expected to launch some kind of campaign committee next year.

Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas has raised a $300,000 kitty to finance his work as chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee while saying he will decide at the end of 1974 whether a presidential bid is feasible.

Aides to Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace make clear he will run if his health permits. They have avidly followed the work of a party commission revising Democratic delegate selection rules.

Two others who have expressed interest, Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio and Sen. Birch E. Bayh of Indiana, face 1974 tests at the polls before they can decide whether to embark on a presidential race.

The biggest question mark for the Democrats is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. He leads the early polls but has done little and indicates he won't move before 1975.

Kennedy is likely to be the most active of all Democratic campaigners in 1974. However, he has also indicated he might run for re-election to the Senate in 1976 rather than seek the presidency.

As for the remaining veterans of the 1972 campaign, McGovern denied a recent report he might run again, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says he won't seek the nomination but could be available at a deadlocked convention, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie indicates he could be interested.

Then, there are the dark horses. Gov. Daniel Walker of Illinois, for example, recently raised some money in Beverly Hills, Calif., a traditional financial stop for Democrats. The assumption was he had a national race in mind.

When they get ready to move, they won't find an empty track.

The Missouri: some feel she is principal river

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Its headwaters are the trickling drops from Rocky Mountain cliffs, released from snow mass by the warming spring sun.

From points just east of Yellowstone National Park in northwest Wyoming and northeast Idaho the waters descend the mountainous terrain.

At tiny Three Forks, Mont., they are disgorged by the rivers Gallatin, Jefferson and Madison into a common bed they will share for more than 4,000 miles — the long, meandering sojourn through deep valleys, across arid and semiarid plains, into the heavily wooded temperate zones and ultimately into the Gulf of Mexico.

It is another cycle of the Missouri River, the "Pekitanoui," as Father Marquette called it by its Indian name in 1673.

Downstream, to its junction with the Mississippi River above St. Louis, millions of persons rely on the Missouri's cycle with hardly a thought of it.

The Missouri's impact on the nation may not seem as readily apparent as the impact on the 9.2 million persons who draw their water supply from the main stem. The Missouri's watershed, however, reaches into 10 states—Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri— and represents one-fourth of the nation's agricultural land. The Missouri and its tributaries provide more than 15 million acrefeet of irrigation, much of it for land which otherwise would be useless to man. And nine of the states in the basin accounted for 54.7 per cent of the 1.54 billion bushels of wheat grown in the United States in 1972.

The basin states also regularly produce 30 per cent of the nation's sorghum, barley and sugar beets, 20 per cent of the corn and oats and 40 per cent of the rye—and one-fourth of the nation's red-meat animals.

The earliest European explorers were awestruck by the physical extremes of the river. Elevations range from more than 14,000 feet to less than 400 feet, making it a frothy raceway in parts of the upper reaches and a wide, sluggish behemoth along the old river valley in the south.

As early as October 1717 there is evidence of a feeling shared over the years by many geologists that the Missouri—not the Mississippi—is the principal river of the nation's heartland. In a memorandum to the Council of Marines in France, Sieur Hubert of the Colony of Louisiana wrote:

"Those who have ascended the Missouri assert that there is the real course of the Mississippi, and that the latter should legitimately bear the name of the Missouri."

Jacob V. Brower, 19th century geographer, said the Mississippi was labeled a separate stream only because it was discovered first. "Had the discovery of this principal and chief river proceeded from the west toward the east, there would have been but one name for its entire course from the Continental Divide to the Gulf of Mexico," he wrote in "The Missouri River and its Utmost Source."

Since the recession of the glaciers and for at least 11,000 years, the Missouri has been, on the whole, a good host to man. It meant life in much of the plains, which without this waterway would be extremely inhospitable. Yet it was—and is—capable also of unleashing devastating floods.

As environmentalists like to point out, "The Indian had enough sense to put his tent on a hill."

In the lower basin where limestone cliffs border flood plains as wide as 17 miles, the free river could stretch across the breadth and advance with such force as to denude the land of even the most firmly rooted trees.

Despite an elaborate system of dams, revetments and levees, the mighty river continues to assert itself periodically. Some of the most severe floods occurred in the lower basin in 1951 and 1952. Destruction was estimated at more than $2.4 billion and at least 300 persons perished.

Last spring the Missouri again demonstrated its immense power. More than 800,000 acres were flooded from Kansas City to the mouth and damage was estimated at $15.2 million.

BRUCE BIOSSAT
Brazil 'right on' as export nation

By Bruce Biossat

WASHINGTON (NEA)

With the world taking fright over its capacity to sustain itself through vital resources, it's a pleasure to report on the determined opening up of Brazil, one of its great yet hitherto largely untapped storehouses.

The story has many facets. This huge Latin land, a bit bigger than the United States, has immense stocks of iron ore, barely touched. It is presumed to have other extensive mineral reserves, unknown still as to kind and real size.

Manufacturing is growing apace. A new, brief Brookings Institution report devoted fundamentally to the "trading greats," meaning North America, Europe and Japan, made passing reference to Brazil as an example of a nation growing through the building of its exports.

To speed its development, Brazilians are cutting long new swaths of highway through previously "impenetrable" jungles — one even traversing the sprawling Amazon river basin from east to west.

But let's dwell here on just a piece of the story. Soybeans. Big in this country now for animal feeds and oils, and a high cash-value crop longer than many Americans realize. In demand elsewhere, too, particularly in Japan, where soybeans spell food and they've depended on us for 90 per cent of their consumption.

When President Nixon for a while slapped export limits on our soybean output, he hit the Japanese where they live. And suddenly Brazil popped into the picture, as Japan let loose the word it's been eyeing that Latin country as a new and possibly, in time, sizable alternative supply source.

It turns out that, though far back, Brazil is already the third largest soybean producer after the U.S. and China. More important, it's hot for expansion in this field. The product grows well in the country's higher, somewhat drier southern regions.

Wheat farmers there, disappointed over recent poor output, are switching to soybeans, despite the fact Brazil right now has to import part of its wheat needs and doesn't want to become too dependent on imports.

Still, providing the pursuit of this new big-seller doesn't get too feverish, Brazilian authorities want to encourage what's happening. This year they estimate they may export $600 million worth of soybeans as they produce perhaps three million tons.

In 1974, they say exports of this product may surpass $1 billion, with production possibly reaching five million tons. If that occurs, it may be the first time in the country's history that coffee slips from its historic perch as Brazil's top export.

This doesn't mean coffee is falling from favor. Demand is stable, and the world market price high. Brazil wants to hold its place in this lucrative field.

Nevertheless, the soybean export push is symbolic of its wish to find more and more of the means required for major economic uplift which will truly unlock the big storehouse.

Naturally enough, Brazilians are thinking of themselves. Their annual per capita income is $30, as against oil-rich Venezuela's $950 and Argentina's $880. Brazilians want to be industrialized, independent, and playing a role that matches their size and resources.

Never mind that. It will benefit a good part of the world if they bring it off (and of course the problems are many). Anyway, just for a change, there's a nice helping of good news.

Board makes kindergarten mandatory

Kindergarten attendance is now a prerequisite for entering the first grade in the Sikeston R-6 School District.

The school board voted Tuesday to make kindergarten mandatory.

Under the board's ruling, children entering the first grade must be 6 years old by Oct. 1 of the year they are enrolled and must have completed two semesters of public or private kindergarten.

Supt. Sam Harbin said the move will eliminate the problem of children entering the first grade without kindergarten. Such children are usually behind other children and create problems for the teachers, according to Harbin.

The resolution making kindergarten mandatory said "studies have shown very clearly that children who are exposed to an environment especially designed to stimulate their intellectual, social, emotional and physical growth between birth and the time they enter first grade are more likely to experience success in total future development."

Students transferring into the district after school has been in session for nine weeks or more will be placed in their established grade level for a two- week trial period. Students transferring in before nine weeks, must meet the requirements of local children.

Students in vocational and nonacademic classrooms have already found temperatures in the rooms lowered to 68 degrees, Harbin said. Temperatures in academic classrooms and rooms for elementary children have not been lowered.

Harbin said the school system has been working for years to conserve energy, primarily to save money.

Harbin added he believes the school system will get all the gasoline it needs to keep its buses running, even if it had to go to independent dealers. Harbin said the school system has a firm contract with its supplier, but there are signs the dealer may have difficulty fulfilling his contract.

The school's buses get very poor mileage, Harbin said. Most buses get four miles to the gallon, but one gets only one mile to the gallon.

Harbin said the school system has a non-interruptable natural gas contract. But Harbin said the school system has been told that if the crisis is severe, the flow of gas could be shut down.

Harbin said if the nation switches back to Daylight Savings Time it will have no effect on school schedules.

A survey showed 521 students handicapped in some way attend the schools sysem. The largest number of handicapped students are those with speech problems, numbering 205, 105 educable mentally retarded and 121 with some kind of learning disability.

There is one blind student in the system and eight who have partial sight.

There are four students with epilepsy, six with cerebral palsy, 21 with special health problems, 11 with orthopedic problems, 15 emotionally disturbed, and eight hard of hearing. Five deaf students are being served at the Missouri school for the Deaf at Fulton. Eleven trainable retarded children are served at the state school for mentally retarded.

Harbin said construction on the new junior high school is on schedule, and

Mrs. Webb to direct Head Start

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Mrs. Imogene Webb, a supervisor and instructor at Southeast Missouri State University's Campus School, is scheduled to become director of the Head Start Program operated by the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation.

The change is being made because Southeast Missouri State expects to assume administration of the program on Jan. 1, pending approval of a $1.1 million federal grant. The University of Missouri now administers the program, but is bowing out at the end of the year.

Mrs. Webb will become assistant director when Southeast Missouri State takes over and will succeed Ed Greenfield as director on June 1. Greenfield is an employe of the University of Missouri system and is expected to be reassigned to other duties within the system

With headquarters in Portageville, the DAEOC Head Start Program involves about 1,300 children, ages 3, 4, and 5, from culturally and economically disadvantaged backgrounds. There is a staff of more than 300 professionals and adult aides.

The children served live in the Southeast Missouri counties of Stoddard, Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin, and Pemiscot.

Purpose of Head Start, which had its inception during the presidency of the late Lyndon Johnson, is to provide educational, medical, dental and social advantages to eligible participants.

Prior to joining the Southeast Missouri State faculty, Mrs. Webb was a teacher and elementary principal in rural schools near Naylor for 16 years and in the Naylor city system for nine years. She still maintains her home in Naylor, spending her weekends there while living in an apartment in Cape Girardeau during the week.

Mrs. Webb received both her bachelor of science in education and master of science in education degrees at Arkansas State University. She has done additional graduate work at the University of Missouri, George Peabody College for Teachers, the University of South Dakota, the University

Joint landfill use urged by mayors

VANDUSER— The Scott County Mayors Association voted unanimously Tuesday night to ask the Scott County Court to make an effort to work out an agreement with Mississippi County for joint use of the Scott County sanitary landfill.

The mayors also heard Jerry Harlow and K. M. Streeter, representatives of the Soil and Water Conservation Service office at Benton discuss the Scott County standard soil survey in a meeting at the Vanduser Community Building.

Landowner and residents of the Illmo, Scott City and Commmerce area have been fighting for establishment of a Mississippi County landfill on 80 acres of Scott County land owned by Herb Pickett of rural Illmo.

The objecting landowners have appeared before the Mississippi and Scott County Courts to voice their opposition. The group claimed that a watershed from the land could pollute Holden Creek which runs through adjoining land and is used to water livestock.

Mississippi County has reported difficulty in finding a suitable landfill site within county boundaries because the water table is too high.

Bill Winchester, presiding judge of the Mississippi County Court, has said Mississippi County has been trying for two years to obtain a cooperative landfill agreement with Scott County without success and that his county must have an acceptable plan ready by the first of the year, so the county began looking at sites in north Scott County.

The opposition group said if no legal way can be found to prevent Mississippi County from locating in Scott County, the Scott County Court should invite Mississippi County to use its landfill on a cooperating basis.

Mississippi County Court said a tentative agreement was reached with Scott County when talks first began about building a landfill, but when Scott County permitted James Patrick of St. Louis to take over the landfill as a private enterprise, Mississippi County began looking for a site of its own.

Members of the Scott County Court have said Mississippi County backed out on the agreement.

The Scott County mayors agreed Tuesday night that it would be a lot cheaper on both counties to have a joint landfill instead of each county trying to operate one separately, and a lot of people would be made happy if the two counties had a joint operation.

Harlow told the mayors the Scott County standard soil survey is running ahead of schedule. By the end of

Pickard awarded Beaver

The Silver Beaver, the highest award given to an adult Boy Scout leader, was presented Tuesday night to Layton Pickard of Charleston, who has given over 25 years of service to scouting in the Southeast Missouri Council.

Pickard received the award from Judge Marshall Craig, a past recipient, at the annual Okeechobee District appreciation dinner at First United Methodist Church.

The highest award a district may present to an adult scouter, the Award of Merit, was presented to Bob Browning and Sharon Roberts, both of Sikeston Cub Scout Pack 43, by Jerry Hampton.

The annual appreciation night is held to recognize those who have given their time so that scouting is possible for the youth of the area.

Special awards were presented to Hampton for service to scouting as district commissioner.

Duane Williams of Sikeston was recognized as chairman of the Scout- O-Rama. Also recognized for service on the Scout- O-Rama Committee were Paul Schorey, Nora Springs, Lillian Matthews, Bob Browning, Roy Nall and Hampton of Sikeston and Edward Hill and Mike Euer of East Prairie.

John Peel was recognized as camporee chief for his work on the spring camporee at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Durward Dover of Oran.

Peel also recognized members of the camporee committee, Ted Phipps of Charleston, Durward Dover of Oran, Roy Nall and the Rev. Tom Bass of Sikeston. A special camporee award was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Dover.

Bluff man killed in accident

A rural Poplar Bluff man was killed and two persons were injured in two area traffic accidents Tuesday, the highway patrol announced today.

Richard Pilcher, 59, was dead on arrival at Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff following an accident at 9:40 a.m. on Highway 142 at Neelyville.

The patrol said the accident occurred when the left front wheel of Pilcher's westbound truck came off, causing Pilcher to lose control. His truck crossed the center line and collided with an eastbound truck driven by Ludwig Kovach, 57, of Harviell.

Kovach received minor injuries and was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff. Pilcher's body was taken to Cotrell Funeral Home in Poplar Bluff.

One person was injured in an accident at 8 a.m. on Highway 67 at Silva when a car driven by Gerald Deken, 24, of Cape Girardeau, slowing for a school bus, was rammed from behind by another school bus driven by Loretta Fox, 25, of Greenville.

Deken suffered a head cut and was also taken to Doctors Hospital.

Stolen TV sets recovered

Two portabel television sets, stolen Nov. 4 from McConnell's Magnavox Home Entertainment Center in Kingsway Plaza Mall, have been recovered and returned to the Sikeston Police Department.

Detective Sgt. Jack Patterson said today the sets were found in a farm field about five miles southeast of Dexter.

The sets were stolen by three men who backed their car up to the front of the store, broke out a window and loaded the sets into the car.

The burglary was interrupted by two off- duty policemen, Gary Brown and Joe Sebourn. Brown pulled his car in front of the burglars' vehicle. The burglars fled, smashing into Brown's car in the process.

Three men were later arrested in Poplar Bluff and charged with the crime. However, the television sets were not in their possession at the time of arrest.

The television sets were found over the weekend by a farmer's wife. Patterson said the sets were under some brush, but did not appear to be damaged. Patterson brought the sets back to Sikeston Tuesday.

Professor to reveal UFO findings

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A physics professor at Southeast Missouri State University will make public Saturday a progress report of a scientific investigation into the nature and origin of strange lights reported over Southeast Missouri.

The occasion will be the fall meeting at Meramec Community College in St. Louis of the Missouri Region, American Association of Physics Teachers. Form of the report will be a paper presented by Dr. Harley Rutledge.

Co- authored by Dr. Rutledge, head of the physics department at the university, and Dr. James Sage, assistant professor of industrial and technical education at Southeast Missouri State, the paper is entitled "Project Identification: A Preliminary Investigation of Anomalistic Lights in the Sky Over Southeast Missouri."

Dr. Rutledge will not say what the paper will disclose, but a hint may be contained in one newspaper story which quoted the professor as saying, "To me anyway, our experiences have been incredible."

The "experiences" Dr. Rutledge mentioned were more than 70 nights of field investigagion by him, Dr. Sage, and other faculty members and students at Southeast Missouri State.

The field work began on April 6 in the Piedmont area, where reports of strange lights were frequent at that time. As residents in other areas of Southeast Missouri also reported strange sightings, the scene switched, and most recently Dr. Rutledge has been investigating reports from Sikeston.

All of the investigative work was carried out in accordance with strict scientific guidelines and a variety of instruments was used.

These instruments are enumerated in a description of the presentation in the October newsletter of the Missouri Region, American Association of Physics Teachers.

That same description notes also that "photographic . . . data are presented."

Dr. Rutledge has been a member of the Southeast Missouri State faculty since 1963. A former high school teacher, he earned his bachelor's degree at Tarkio College and his master's and doctor's degrees at the University of Missouri.

He has published and presented a number of papers in his field and is a member of several professional organizations. He has been president of both the Missouri branch of the American Association of Physics Teachers and the Missouri Academy of Science.

Dr. Sage joined the Southeast Missouri State faculty in 1970. He is a graduate of Ferris State College, Wayne State University, and the University of Missouri.

CAN "PEACE" COME TO THE MIDEAST?

It is becoming evident that Israel is about to be faced with the most excruciating dilemma of its stormy, twenty-five year existence. It must decide whether to make territorial concessions to the Arab demands for the return of their lands captured in 1967, or to stand pat on its present military established boundaries.

Until the most recent war the issue could be avoided because the Arabs would not even meet with the Israelies unless the precondition of Israeli withdrawal was first accepted. Israel refused discussions on such a basis and meantime sent her own people into the captured territories with every indication that their occupation would be made permanent. It was this progreessive fait accompli under pretext of diplomatic stalemate that drove the Arabs to resort to war.

In the aftermath the Arabs now seem willing and eager to meet Israel face- to - face on the assumption that world opinion and big power insistence on a permanent settlement will be working in their favor.

This assumption seems valid. Even though militarily defeated once more, the Arabs can make a persuasive case that if Israel does not withdraw the future holds only endless conflict, with the inevitable risk of the U. S. - Soviet involvement. The Arabs fought well enough to destroy the argument that they would have to make peace because they could not make war. This was a comfortable foundation stone of Israel's pre-October 1973 policy.

"The United States recognizes that the conditions that produced the war on Oct. 6 cannot be permitted to continue" said Dr. Kissinger in his October 25 press conference. The message is clear. With its Arab oil cut off until Israel withdraws, the U. S. is going to come down hard on the Jewish state.

How severe will U. S. pressure be? How much will Israel have to give up, and what can Israel expect in return to meet its requirements for secure boundaries? Will Israeli public opinion embittered by the Arab attack on Yom Kippur, and already angry at a government which permitted itself to be caught by surprise, permit the territorial concessions that will have to be made to satisfy even minimum Arab demands? These are grim questions which now face Israel's leaders.

The nub of the problem is that peace can come to the Mideast only if Israel now agrees to trade land for words — words of reassurance from the Arabs and guarantees from the big powers. Historically, words have never been a good basis for security because the circumstances which produced them can so easily change. And the Jews have their own special historical experiences.

All in all, the chances for a real Mideast peace still do not look bright.

The Wall Street Journal writes, "Students have defaulted on $55.2 million of federally guaranteed loans over the past five years, the Office of Education said. Officials said they have recovered only $3.2 million of the amount so far, and have increased the number of collectors to 28 from three. Some $6.1 billion of federal and state guaranteed loans have gone to 6.1 million college and vocational school students since the program began in 1966; about 75 per cent of the defaults involved students at vocational schools."

Noting that the nation's mines, mills, and crowded cities are often breeding places for lung disease, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO today called for support of the 1973 Christmas Seal campaign. He was joined in his endorsement by Leonard Woodcock, president of the International Union, United Automobile, Aerospace & Agricultural Implement Workers of American - UAW.

The backing of the labor leaders was expressed in letters to Dr. Wendell L. Van Loan, president of the American Lung Association, which conducts the annual drive to prevent and control emphysema, tuberculosis and occupational diseases such as "black lung," as well as air pollution.

Pointing out that among the 35,000,000 Americans suffering from lung disease are many union members and their families, Meany said the AFL-CIO is especially concerned with research in respiratory disease and in seeing that occupational and environmental hazards are "pinpointed, prevented and eradicated." Praising the "distinguished work your agency has done in health education," Meany added, "I urge all our affiliates and members to support your 1973 Christmas Seal campaign through our AFL-CIO community services program."

The endorsement from Woodcock, a one- time tuberculosis patient, underscored a personal concern for fighting lung disease in addition to continued interest by his labor organization in eliminating hazardous working conditions that contribute to lung- crippling diseases.

John Winter, M. D., chairman, Air Pollution Committee for the American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri, emphasized that irritants in the air such as dust, asbestos, cotton fibres and many other pollutants are a prime factor in contributing to lung disease. Lung associations, therefore, have as one of their major objectives cleansing the air in factories, mines and other places where people work, he said. Support of the Christmas Seal campaign by all citizens so that programs to protect the lungs can be accelerated, he added, is a "matter of life and breath."

MR. NIXON'S PROSECUTOR

President Nixon's choice as special prosecutor of the Watergate and related crimes, Leon Jaworski of Texas, may have many qualifications for the job. But he should not be approved by Congress. It is not consistent with a basic principle of justice for one of the leading suspects in this criminal case to name the prosecutor.

The Board of Governors of the American Bar Association has reaffirmed this principle in a formal statement and has proposed that Congress establish an independent office of special prosecutor. The bar association board proposes that Congress authorize the appointment of such a special prosecutor by the U. S. District Court for the District of Columbia.

President Nixon said he would not fire Jaworski, as he did Archibald Cox, without first consulting with House and Senate Democratic and Republican leaders and the leading members of the judiciary committees of Congress.

This does not provide assurance of a full and honest investigation and prosecution. It provides no assurance that Jaworski is a capable man to handle such a probe. The fact that he is a former president of the bar association does not mean he is a good prosecutor.

His close association with former President Lyndon B. Johnson and former Treasury Secretary John Connally is not a guarantee of impartial prosecution, especially in view of the huge contributions to the Nixon re-election campaign from Texas. Some of the contributions were in the package of money "laundered" through Mexico and kept from public view.

But aside from that, Jaworski would inevitably be Nixon's man, and the public would not have confidence that the crimes were being prosecuted impartially.

Mr. Nixon also nominated a new head of the Department of Justice, Senator William B. Saxbe, of Ohio. We know of no reasons why Saxbe could not be a strong attorney general who could build up confidence and morale among Justice Department employes again. Such rebuilding is badly needed.

Saxbe has proved to be an independent man in Congress. In the circumstances, that is an especially important attribute for the next attorney general. However, Congress ought to examine his qualifications in other respects most carefully. The law enforcement machinery of the federal government has been seriously undermined in this administration. That includes the FBI.

Congress has the responsibility to take hold of the Watergate investigation and to clean up the Department of Justice.

A RELATIVE TERM

Hardship is a relative term. Rough going for one person would be considered easy sailing by another. The same goes for whole nations. Consumers in our country march on Washington over grievances that would be laughable to citizens of other countries.

A New York Times special news release reports on current economic troubles in Yugoslavia. There the average take- home pay is the equivalent of $100 a month. And the average family spends half of its income on food -- compared to less than 16 per cent for the average family in the United States. Despite this, the government has decreed that the price of white bread must rise by 23 per cent, cooking oil 10 per cent, etc. Yugoslavia has recently had a rate of inflation estimated to be around 16 per cent during the past year.

It is easy to imagine what would happen in the United States if American citizens had to pay half of their monthly income for food and, at the same time, face such stiff price increases as those now confronting the people of Yugoslavia. Yes, hardship is a relative term, and most Americans have little understanding of what it means.

A PUBLIC RESPONSIBILITY

Billions of dollars are spent every year toward achieving the goal of highway safety. Paradoxically, one phase of highway safety efforts -- that having to do with rail grade crossing accidents -- has been neglected. Possibly the reason for this has been a misinformed belief that grade crossing protective measures are a responsibility of railroads. But such is far from the case.

A trend toward public responsibility for highway grade crossing safety began with a U. S. Supreme Court decision in 1877. That decision held that the rights and obligations of a railroad company and those of a public highway user were "mutual and reciprocal". Then in 1935, in another milestone case, the Supreme Court held that grade crossing protection should be primarily a public responsibility rather than an equal one. Justice Brandeis, in handing down the Court's opinion, wrote, "The railroad has ceased to be the prime instrument of danger and the main cause of accidents. It is the railroad which now requires protection from dangers incident to motor transportation." Subsequent to the 1935 Court decision, federal highway appropriations have allocated certain percentages of road construction funds to removal of grade crossing hazards. In the 51 years, from 1920 through 1970, more than 86,000 people were killed and almost 230,000 injured in accidents at grade crossings. The president of the Association of American Railroads has noted that "grade crossings are the single most readily- identifiable location of highway accidents ...," and only about 20 per cent of the total now have protective devices.

In expressing support for greater federal programs to help improve grade crossings, the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission has said that such programs would by"... a small price to pay for the substantial benefits to be derived." The tragedies and inconvenience which mark the meeting of every railroad and highway emphasize the urgency of making grade crossing protection a number one priority in the overall goal of highway safety.

STEAMFITTERS NEED SCOURING

"Politically powerful and violence- wracked union" has been a trite but all too true description for years of the St. Louis local.

So it was hardly surprising The Globe Democrat discovered that almost half of the $368,000 the steamfitter local collected last year in "voluntary" lugs was disbursed in administrative costs without public disclosure.

Nor is anyone likely to be surprised that the fitters' Voluntary Political, Education, Legislative, Charity and Defense Fund gave out $241,000 to political candidates last year. Such funds, which are theoretically separate from normal union activities, enable unions to evade campaign laws which forbid union contributions to candidates for office.

It has been estimated that over the decades the local has distributed more than $20 million to politicians, including President Lyndon B. Johnson, who in 1964 commuted the prison sentence of racketeer Lawrence Callanan, union boss, without any restrictions. Callanan returned to run Local 562 until his natural death in 1971, whereupon reformist Edward Steska took over. Steska was murdered in February 1972, a crime never solved.

Steamfitter goon Louis Shoulders got blown to pieces that August, along with a former fitter that October. Callanan's son, a union agent, lost some limbs but not his life last June.

And these are just a few of the highlights — if they can be called that — of the violence.

Unfortunately, between this and the wholesale buying or attempted buying of candidates, the U. S. Senate investigations subcommittee in August found "no new information" to warrant an investigation, proposed the previous month by its chairman, Sen. Henry Jackson.

Unfortunately, the national union has never stepped in to take the local into trusteeship.

Unfortunately, the vast majority of steamfitters, although honest and disturbed, dare say nothing or do nothing for fear of meeting the same fate as Steska.

Unfortunately, Congress has never closed off the contributions loopholes which allow unions to make marionettes out of office holders.

And unfortunately, the Justice Department, its criminal division, the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, and the St. Louis anti-crime task force have been unable so far to clear up the crimes and clean up the union, as was done with the miners' union following the murder of three of the Yablonski family.

How fire-safe is your home? Most homeowners are careful not to overload electrical circuits, store combustible waste materials, or leave fireplaces unscreened. But there are other basic fire-safety measures that should be built into a home to assure maximum safeguards against the threat of fire.

One of the most important is fire- resistant roofing. The National Fire Protection Association has for years urged enactment of community codes that prohibit use of readily combustible roofing.

An increasing number of communities do require roofing that qualifies as fire-resistant. Such roofing includes asphalt shingles, tile, slate, metal, asbestos cement, asphalt roll roofing, and chemically-treated wood shingles.

Other built-in structural fire- safety factors are:

. Walls of non-combustible materials such as plaster, gypsum or asbestos- cement. Insulation should be fire-resistant.

. Doors that are solid (not hollow core) and tight-fitting enough to hold back fire and smoke.

. Windows large and low enough to serve as emergency exits, and easily opened even by children.

. Chimmeys that are "lined" and reach well above the roof peak.

. Use of "firestop" barriers between wall studs, floor joists and ceiling rafters to block the passage of heat, smoke, and flames.

. Furnaces that are properly installed and serviced. There should be sufficient air for proper combustion of oil, gas and coal furnaces and adequate wall clearance around furnace and flue pipes.

HISTORY OF DRUGS X

As we stated in our last column about the history of drugs, "... by 1900, the widespread consumption of patent medicines, and the dangers of opium addiction had become serious problems in the United States." Several characteristics of opiate use under nineteenth- century conditions when opiate preparations were legally available at low cost will probably strike contemporary readers as strange.

First, most users of narcotics in those days were women! By contrast, estimates during the 1960's indicated that male- users outnumbered females by at least five to one!

A second remarkable fact about the nineteenth- century use of opiates in the United States was the age of the users. A survey done in Chicago in 1880 showed an average age for males of 41.4 years and for females of 39.4 years. Today, in contrast, nearly half of all addicts down to the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs are 30 and younger and only 13.6 per cent are over 40 years of age.

A third interesting fact was the socioeconomic status of the nineteenth- century narcotics user. A survey done in 1885 in Iowa noted that the majority of opiate users, "are to be found among the educated and most honored and useful members of society."

Finally, there is no evidence of any disporportionate use of opiates among black people during the nineteenth century; indeed, there are few references to their use of opiates at all!

LIST FIVE TAX AREAS CONGRESS MAY REVIEW

Under Secretary of the Treasury Edwin S. Cohen, speaking at Tax Foundation's 24th National Tax Conference, discussed five major areas in which Congress is likely to consider tax changes in 1973.

They are capital gains taxation, the minimum tax on preference income, the Asset Depreciation Range System, Job Development, Investment Credit, and tax "shelters" resulting mainly from accelerated depreciation.

He said the Treasury and IRS recently completed more than 9,000 typewritten pages of regulations implementing the Tax Reform Act of 1969. The changes helped cut nontaxable returns with AGI over $200,000 from 300 in 1969, to 68 in 1970.

SOVIET NAVY STRENGTHENED

Talk of cordial relations with the Soviet Union is the order of the day, but we must constantly remind ourselves that the Kremlin is firmly and publicly opposed to everything that our country has stood for over the years. It is therefore well to take note of Moscow's continuing buildup of its aggressive potential.

Colonel Robert Heinl Jr. recently called attention to the fact that the Soviet Union is now building its second large aircraft carrier. This new ship will be a sister to the nearly completed "Kiev" and like the "Kiev" will displace about 45,000 tons and include a 600-foot flight deck.

Both carriers will be able to mount a powerful battery of guns and missile launchers and carry about 40 jet aircraft and more than 40 large helicopters.

These ships are Soviet Russia's first major aircraft carriers and join two 18,000-ton anti- submarine helicopter carriers, the "Leningrad" and the "Moskva." They are evidence of the continuing importance given the development of the Russian navy.

At the present time, Russia's navy has 1,911 ships, compared to our own 583- ship fleet. While Moscow has been building its super- modern carriers, farleftists in our government have been downgrading the importance of carriers in our own naval forces.

In the 19th century, Marx's colleague Friedrich Engels spoke of navies as "the political force at sea." The current communist leaders have obviously taken these words to heart. The greater the Kremlin's capacity to launch aggressive war, the more concessions its leaders will be able to extract from the United States. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Caulfield's Testimony Of Nixon, Kraft Taps

WASHINGTON-- Former White House undercoverman John Caulfield has told Senate investigators about his role in wiretapping President Nixon's brother, Donald, and columnist Joseph Kraft.

These sensitive telephone taps were ordered by the President's right- hand man, John Ehrlichman, who apparently didn't trust the FBI to do the tapping "because it was a 'sieve.' "

The Secret Service not only tapped Donald Nixon's phone, according to a summary of Caulfield's closed- door testimony, but conducted "personal surveillance" of him.

"Caulfield was to monitor this project to determine if it had any merit," states the summary. "Caulfield did not listen to any of the tapes resulting from the surveillance, but merely kept abreast of the information that was being reported by the Secret Service.

'NOTHING OF VALUE'

"This wiretap was placed when Donald Nixon was out in California, and Caulfield recalls receiving telephone calls from Secret Service contacts who would report that nothing was happening.

"After three weeks, Caulfield reported to Ehrlichman that there was nothing of value coming from the surveillance, and he recommended that it should be canceled. The surveillance was allegedly terminated following Caulfield's recommendation."

As the "action officer within the White House on Nixon family problems," Ehrlichman also "gave Caulfield the assignment of tracking Donald Nixon Jr., when he got into some trouble in the Sierra Madre, California." Caulfield sent a private eye, Anthony Ulasewicz, to California "to investigate the situation and report it back to Ehrlichman."

The Joseph Kraft tap was ordered in June 1969. "Ehrlichman requested that Caulfield arrange the tap within the next 24 hours," states the summary. "Ehrlichman explained that he could not use the FBI because it was a 'sieve,' and therefore it was necessary for Caulfield to do this tap.

CONTACTED RAGAN

"After looking at the Georgetown neighborhood where Kraft lived, Caulfield went back to Ehrlichman to explain the serious difficulties inherent in placing a wiretap in that neighborhood. Ehrlichman again emphasized that the tap had to be done and so instructed Caulfield.

"Caulfield told Ehrlichman that he would contact Jack Ragan, his contact from the 1968 campaign. Ragan and Caulfield went to the neighborhood together to survey the proposed tap, and Ragan told Caulfield that he would need (more technical information) in order to implement the wiretap. Caulfield got this information for Ragan from a friend of Caulfield's in the Secret Service.

"Caulfield again went to Ehrlichman and said that a phone installer card would be necessary in case someone were caught while tampering with the telephone line. Ehrlichman instructed Caulfield to go to John Davies, then on the White House staff, to get this card. Davies gave the card to Caulfield who passed it on to Ragan.

"About a week or ten days following the initial request from Ehrlichman, Caulfield was again called by Ehrlichman who said to cancel the wiretap because (the late FBI chief J. Edgar) Hoover would take care of it. Caulfield called Ragan to call off the tap, and Ragan told him 'It's done.' "

PUT IN 'BURN BAG'

Caulfield testified that he later obtained the telephone tape from Ragan and "destroyed it by placing it in one of the burn bags without ever telling Ehrlichman about this tape."

FOOTNOTE: My associate George Clifford reached Donald Nixon who refused to comment on the story. "But I will say this," he said, "you fellows will have a day of reckoning. There have been a lot of stories written. I have a whole drawer full of them. The stories about me by Jack Anderson and many others are 95 per cent untrue and false."

Ragan's attorney, Philip Herrick, said Ragan couldn't comment because he is talking to the Senate Watergate Committee about the Kraft tap. The White House said Davies is now in Hawaii, but repeated calls to Hawaii failed to locate him. Ehrlichman, approached through his attorney, had no comment. Kraft was unavailable in the Middle East when we went to press.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: One of the Smithsonian Institution's most fascinating historical items probably will never be put on exhibit at the famous museum. It's the list of contributions to the Nixon campaign from the Smithsonian Associates' National Board. Of 27 members on the board, 16 coughed up more than $340,000...The prestigious accounting firm of Coopers and Lybrand did the auditing to back up President Nixon's public statements about his San Clemente land deal. Now we've learned the firm got a $242,000 contract from the Justice Department to develop an accounting system for its Law Enforcement Assistance Administration....The Washington Post's rapier-penned columnist Maxine Cheshire has signed up to do a book for $150,000 to be called tentatively "VIP." One of her unprinted episodes involves a busty Playboy centerfold model who dated Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Reorganization bill needs changes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A citizens committee will have to make some changes in its proposed state reorganization bill before they will accept it, say two state senators.

Sens. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, and William J. Cason, D-Clinton, told the 90 or so committee members Tuesday that 100 years of legislative experience and 158 hours of study had gone into a reorganization bill vetoed by the governor.

"Be sure you know there is a reason for what you are doing," Webster told the citizens group. He and Cason cited several job positions and the environmental commissions where they felt the governor should make appointments with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The main argument between the legislators and the governor is over the number of jobs that would be filled by the governor—with Senate consent—instead of by department directors.

Reorganization of the executive branch into 14 major departments was approved in 1972 by the voters. The constitutional amendment says reorganization must be accomplished by July 1.

Cason and Webster served on the Senate Reorganization Committee. The chairman, Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, was angry about missing the meeting. He said the governor's aide, Charles Valier, had told him the meeting was Friday.

"Apparently this is going to be a railroad situation and I'm terribly disappointed," Spradling said.

The citizens committee, appointed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond, came up with a bill similar to one the House passed but the senate rejected.

The governor's staff wrote the bill after sending questionnaires to committee members.

Bond said he agreed with Cason and Webster that "sensitive areas should have Senate consent," but he told the committee he would not "compromise the goals of reorganization" just to ensure that there are checks and balances and absolute safeguards against political interference.

The best way to avoid political intervention is to expand the merit system, he said.

Ledrew Davis pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and was placed on supervised probation for two years.

Talmadge Ollie West of Chicago, charged with possession of a concealed weapon, was fined $25.

Anne, Mark host palace ball

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips waltzed until 3 a.m. Tuesday in the ballroom of Buckingham Palace, then sipped champagne for breakfast in their last big fling before their wedding Wednesday.

Some 1,500 guests attended the ball given by Anne's mother, Queen Elizabeth II, for the princess and her dashing dragoon.

Among them were ex-King Constantine and Queen Anne- Marie of Greece, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, Prince Juan Carlos and Princess Sofia, the future king and queen of Spain, and a dozen other members of European royalty.

Before the ball, 100 of the guests dined in the palace throne room.

Most of the 1,500 dancers beneath the ballroom's six glittering chandeliers were people who weren't invited to the wedding in Westminster Abbey. Because of the Abbey's size, that list, too, is limited to 1,500.

The pre- dawn breakfast was the 25- year- old bridegroom- to- be's second champagne nightcap in 24 hours.

The first was early Monday, at a bachelor's dinner given at a West London restaurant by 14 fellow officers from the Queen's Dragoon Guards. Phillips downed a bottle of champagne in three minutes after the owner of the restaurant promised a case free if the captain handled a whole bottle in one go.

The officers went on to finish off the case in addition to a dozen bottles of wine and liqueurs.

"We lost count after a while," one of the revelers said later.

Phillips had roast duck dumped in his lap twice, and the party reportedly ended with a spree of furniture and glass smashing and an hour of song. Diners in the next room complained — until they heard whose party it was.

"I can't remember too much about it, but it was a splendid evening," said Phillips' best man, Capt. Eric Grounds.

He paid the $500 bill — "two months' pay."

Reader confuses Women's Libbers with Gay Libbers

Dear Ann Landers: My mother is constantly calling me thoughtless, selfish, stupid, inconsiderate, etc., etc. I must be all these things because she says them over and over.

Tonight she started to cut me down again. I didn't say anything, but I got so angry I hated her. My anger gave way to tears and suddenly I realized it wasn't my mother I hated, but myself.

I know parents aren't to blame for everything, but It's hard to retain self- confidence when someone as important as your mother is constantly belittling you. It would help if the put-downs were balanced by a little praise, but praise from her is unheard of.. I've stopped trying to share my experiences with her because she has a way of turning the most important events in my life into trivial matters.

I'll never stop trying to be more thoughtful and considerate, but it's awfully hard to be your best self when your own mother keeps telling you you're worthless. — A Nothing Daughter.

Dear Daughter: Your letter is a cry for help if I ever heard one. I hope your mother got the message.

Dear Ann Landers: I couldn't believe my eyes when I read your comumn last week. You printed a letter from a girl who was depressed during a small dinner party and excused herself to go to the powder room and cry. A gal in the group became concerned after a while and decided to check. When she discovered her friend weeping she put her arms around her and said, "Don't feel rejected. I love you."

At that moment another woman entered the powder room. When she saw the two girls embracing she sputtered, "I wish you Women's Libbers would stay in your own homes!"

You chose to ignore that statement. Why? Don't you realize what she was saying? How could you allow someone to put Women's Libbers in the same bag with lesbians?

By just keeping your mouth shut you can do an awful lot of damage. Sign this letter — Your Silence Questioned.

Dear Silence: Never mind my mouth. What's the matter with your eyes? If you will go to your local newspaper and check that column (dated August 9) you'll find the woman said, "I wish you Gay Libbers would stay in your own homes."

Your apologies are accepted.

Dear Ann Landers: Teddy and I plan to be married during the Christmas holidays. We will be living with his parents. They have a lovely home and everything a person would need. How can I tactfully let my friends and family know that I won't have any use for linens, pots and pans, appliances, china, and all the things most brides like to receive as wedding gifts. What we'd really like is CASH.

Please don't think I'm crass. I am just —Practical.

Dear Prac: Don't tell your friends what to send and what NOT to send unless they ask. It's bad manners. Moreover, from a purely practical point of view it would be short-sighted. I hope you don't intend to live with Teddy's mother for the rest of your life. You can always put away the gifts you won't be using immediately. Later you'll be delighted that you have them — especially those appliances.

At the current rate of inflation, an electric egg beater will cost you $100 in two years — if you can afford to buy eggs.

Ann Landers discusses teen-age drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading, "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illoinois 60654.

Miss Williamson bride of Tony Poole

Miss Jo Ann Williamson became the bride of Anthony G. Poole in a candlelight, double- ring ceremony at 8 p.m. Oct. 19 in Wesley United Methodist Church. The Rev. Jerry Statler performed the service before a background of lighted tapers in candelabras adorned with fall flowers.

Tapers and multicolored fall flowers also lined the church aisles and decorated pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Geneva Williamson, 726 E. Gladys, and the late Sidney M. Williamson. The groom's parents are Mrs. Hildred Patterson of Cathlamet, Wash., and Harold Poole, 515 Malcolm.

Bob Williamson of Brossett, Ark., brother of the bride, presented a program of prenuptial music and accompanied Roger Tolliver, who sang "We've Only Just Begun", "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Miss Libby Whitworth was maid of honor, and Mrs. Beverly Carney of Clinton was matron of honor. Mrs. Debbie Brinkman and Miss Donna Mulcahy served as bridesmaids.

Miss Whitworth's gown was yellow. The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore apricot gowns. They were identically styled from polyester crepe with empire waistlines featuring antique lacing threaded with brown velvet ribbon around the bodice and short, fitted, puffed sleeves. Their gowns were complemented by a personalized silver pendant in the shape of hearts. Each carried a nosegay of talisman roses and various fall-colored daisy mums with matching satin and velvet streamers.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Charles Williamson wore a floor- length gown of polyester sata peau.

The gown featured an empire waistline with re-embroidered Chantilly lace around the bodice and two full-length vertical rows extending down the front of the dress. The full sleeves were fashioned on the bishop styled with the cuff forming a teardrop on the back of the hand. The back fell gracefully into a chapel train with Chantilly lace gracing the hem.

The bride's fingertip-length illusion veil was fashioned from a Queen Anne tiara adorned with Guipure lace and seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a large nosegay of talisman roses and featured various colors of fall daisies and daisy mums. Matching satin and velvet streamers extended from the bouquet.

The groom was attired in an ivory brocade tuxedo trimmed in black velvet and accented with a white ruffled shirt and black, velvet, butterfly bow tie. He wore a single talisman rose in the lapel.

Thomas Poole of Sikeston, brother of the groom, served as best man. Jim Carney of Clinton, Jim Klein of Farmington and King Sidwell of Columbia were groomsmen. The best man wore a King George tuxedo trimmed in black velvet and accented with a yellow ruffled shirt and black, velvet, butterfly bow tie.

Groomsmen were attired in matching tuxedos with apricot ruffled shirts and black, velvet, butterfly bow ties. All wore rose boutonnieres.

Steve Matthews and Craig Brinkman served as ushers and candlelighters for the ceremony.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a floor-length shirt- waisted gown of polyester and chiffon. The groom's mother wore a floor - length gown of navy, lime and beige fashioned of polyester knit. Each mother wore a lime-green cymbidium orchid.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's three-tiered cake was decorated with fall- colored daisy mums around the cake and between each layer. A fall floral arrangement graced the top of the cake. Two gold candelabras decorated with fall- colored floral arrangements were on each side of the cake.

Mrs. Brenda Williamson of Fort Scott, Kan., Mrs. Kathy Mitchell and Mrs. Anita Lawson served at the reception table.

Mrs. Sondra Sharp attended the guestbook.

Out- of - town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Herman Poe, Marilyn Spurgeon, Elayne Reece and Delora Spurgeon of Jasper, Ala., Mrs. Beth Ballard of Morley; and Verlin Spurgeon, stationed in the Army in Panama.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of Sikeston High School, is a licensed practical nurse at Veterans Administration Hospital in Columbia.

The groom, a 1968 Sikeston High School graduate, will receive a bachelor of arts degree in pre-medical science in December from University of Missouri- Columbia.

He was formerly employed by Ferguson Medical Group in Sikeston as a physician's assistant and is now employed by the University of Missouri Medical Center pathology Department.

The bride was honored with a miscellaneous household shower Oct. 16 given by Miss Libby Whitworth and Mrs. Debbie Layton.

The couple honeymooned at Tan-Tara Resort near Osage Beach on the Lake of the Ozarks.

They are making their home at No. 22 Southside Trailer Court in Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony G. Poole

Variety of foods needed for meals

Repeatedly, nutritionists emphasize the value of choosing a wide variety of foods for your meals. This is a wise course because, through variety, you will tickle your palate with many different tastes; you will, as well, be more likely to gain all the different nutrients you need than if you practice a narrow choice of foods.

We suggest that you follow the four- food- group plan -- that is, select your foods from the vast collection of goodies that belong to the milk group, the meat- fish- poultry- egg broup, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals. These groups offer you everything except pure fats and sugars. But each of the foods will offer you some fat and/or some sugar in some form.

In my opinion, only after these foods -- and within a calorie level that will not cause you to gain weight -- should you add sugars and fats per se in any quantity to your meals. I am not rigid on this. But generally, this is the pattern you should follow.

And, speaking of calories, it is important that you choose your calories "by the company they keep." What that means is, choose foods that give you a lot of nutrition but not a lot of calories.

Take milk. In 1972, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, of the foods available for consumption in the U.S., dairy foods (excluding butter) provided the following percentages of available nutrients: calcium, 76; riboflavin, 41; phosphorus, 36; protein, 22; magnesium, 22; vitamin B12, 20; vitamin A value, 13; vitamin B6, 10; thiamin, 9; and almost all the vitamin D.

But with all this, dairy foods provided only 11% of the calories in our food supply. This means, of course, that dairy foods (excluding butter) do not qualify as "high energy" foods. That is not their bag. They are solidly nutritious without loading you with excess calories. Other foods -- high carbohydrate foods, for example, and fats -- are noted for their energy value. And we need them, too. Just as we need all the food groups.

My point is that by choosing a wide variety of foods we avoid overloading on foods of higher energy value than we need while perhaps neglecting many nutrients that we need from other foods.

Adults should follow this daily food guide: the milk group -- 2 or more glasses (or equivalent in other dairy foods); the meat group -- 2 or more servings; vegetables and fruits -- 4 or more servings; breads and cereals -- 4 or more servings. Children should get 3 or more glasses of milk; teenagers -- 4 or more glasses. This is the foundation for a good diet.

Book Review

PATHS OF GLORY
by Humphrey Cobb
221pp.)

Humphrey Cobb's classic anti-war novel about World War I, PATHS OF GLORY, is now available in a Bard edition from Avon Books. Upon its appearance in 1935, reviewers praised the novel about three soldiers made the scapegoat for their superiors' mistakes as "a masterpiece of propaganda that should be broadcast for the good of the world." The Bard edition contains an afterword by Warren Eyster in which he discusses the book's unique importance and its renewed significance today. Although many writers outstripped Cobb in literary talent, says Eyster, "no writer ever opposed the power structure more relentlessly than Cobb . . . Indeed, Cobb hated war to a degree that makes Remarque's All Quiet on The Western Front seem merely sentimental and current anti- Vietnam talk a kindergarten protest."

THE HOMECOMING
by Earl Hamner, Jr.
144 pp.

Earl Hamner's THE HOMECOMING, about a Virginia mountain family during the depression, is the tender novel upon which the popular television series The Waltons is based. Both book and program have gotten rave reviews for their portrayal of unpretentious, loving, and genuine relationships. "A warmly human story suitable for every member of the family," says the Chattanooga Times; "Quite wonderful in every respect, beautiful in its conjuring up of a more innocent day," said the Boston Globe.

NO FLYING IN THE HOUSE
by Betty Brock
(Camelot 14613/$.95
139 pp.)

One day a tiny white dog appears before Mrs. Vancourt, a rich dowager. The dog announces that her name is Gloria and she needs a home for herself and young Annabel Tippens, who has been left in her care. How did a miniature dog happen to be raising a child? This mystery and many others are solved in the story that Publishers Weekly has called "a delicious fantasy . . . one of the undisputed charmers of the year."

THE LINDEN AFFAIR
by Martha Albrand
(Avon 15230/$.95
191pp.)

Lisa Linden confronts the father she has not seen since she was five years old, in Martha Albrand's latest Avon release, THE LINDEN AFFAIR. Kenneth Ward, a young American undercover agent, is convinced that the man released after fifteen years of imprisonment for anti- Nazi activities is not really Lisa's father, but a Soviet agent. His attempts to reveal this impostor and discover the whereabouts of Lisa's true father result in a tale containing all the elements of "suspense, excitement, and romance," according to Library Journal.

THE BREAKING POINT
by Daphne du Maurier
319 pp.)

With publication of THE BREAKING POINT, Daphne du Maurier's famous collection of short stories, Avon, who is her exclusive paperback publisher, will have a total of 17 of her titles in print. All of the stories in THE BREAKING POINT center around a theme which the author describes in this preface note:

There comes a moment in the life of every individual when reality must be faced. When this happens, it is as though a link between emotion and reason is stretched to the limit of endurance, and sometimes snaps.

Panthers, Mustangs make NPHS semifinals

WARDELL — Lilbourn and North Pemiscot climbed into the semifinals of the annual Mustang Invitational basketball tournament Tuesday night, displaying run and run offenses and tough defenses in their respective season openers.

Coach David McMahon's NPHS cagers roared to a 23-10 first period lead and never trailed in the contest, that was dominated by fouls as 59 were issued in the 72-49 game.

Joe Jennings flipped in 18 points and Ray Norris and Jerry Stewart contributed 12 and 11 respectively in pacing the Mustangs balanced offensive attack. Keith Henson scored 19 for Campbell's top effort.

Edward and Claude McFerren teamed for 30 points, scoring 16 and 14 respectively in the Panthers 75-63 decision over the Delta C-7 Chargers.

Lilbourn opened up a 17-12 first period lead and added to the margin in each of the next two quarters before the Chargers claimed a 20-18 edge in the final period.

Coach Larry Warren's Panthers displayed a lot of quickness and hustle, as did the Chargers, who were just out manned on the boards.

Braves upset AHS

MORLEY — "We just outhustled them", said a jubilant coach Ronnie Cookson after the Scott County Central Braves upset the Advance Hornets 73-59 here Tuesday night in the first outing of the season for both teams.

If this game is any indication of the kind of season were going to have this year it's going to be a big year for some teams.

There's probably not anyone in Southeast Missouri who thought the little Braves would beat the Hornets but they did.

Scott Central simply outplayed the Braves in every aspect of the game, defense, offense and hustle.

The Braves broke the Advance press and went in for the easy shot. Kenny Bright was a stalwart on defense and scored 21 points in the game. The Braves used a press defense to force numerous turnovers which spelled defeat for the Hornets.

Scott Central jumped out to a 17-8 first period lead and never let up as the Hornets tried to battled back. Advance scored 17 in the second period to 15 for the Braves.

Coach Carroll Cookson tried every thing in the book to overcome the lead but everything failed as Scott Central kept the pressure on in the third period scoring 20 points to 16 for the Hornets. The Hornets coach used several combinations but none worked effectively.

Last year's leading B team scorer, Jo David Cummins was held to only nine points in the game. 6-5 David Tropf hit 14 and Lanpher scored 13 for the Hornets.

The Braves were led by Bright with 21 and Robert Coo, a 5-9 forward hit 20.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

Why mothers get and stay grey!

Because the dog always vomits on the carpeting at the same time the guests ring the door bell.

Because the commode always flushes perfectly as soon as the plumber arrives.

Because the cassarole that was such a success two weeks ago offends everyone's palate this week.

Because the dress you bought on sale last winter and haven't worn, doesn't fit this winter.

Because the oldest son will go clear across the room and completely out of his way to "accidentally" knock against the youngest son when passing to promote a fight — and vice versa.

Because the oven only goes hay wire when you've just slipped in a cake.

Because the check gets larger and the sacks get smaller at the grocery store.

Because the appointment with the dentist, the barber, and the doctor are all discovered to be on the same morning.

Because the closet you cleaned out last week is already filled again this week.

Because the tulips you planted so lovingly last fall got eaten by moles.

Because the only time you lay down for a nap the phone rings.

Because the old grey mare just ain't what she use to be — that's called growing older and I'm afraid I'm not doing it very gracefully!

WORSE THAN FIERCE DOG

PORTALES, N.M. (AP) — Mailman Aubrey (Slick) Imoe of Portales was attacked by a snake as he made his rounds in the University Heights area.

Nixon gets advice from GOP senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifteen Republican senators have lectured President Nixon on ways to cleanse his administration of the Watergate scandals.

Their advice ranged from universal pleas for complete disclosure to suggestions, which Nixon rejected, that he resign or submit himself voluntarily to the impeachment process.

In two hours of free-wheeling conversation Tuesday night, the President promised to make full disclosure of all facts bearing on the Watergate controversy and other scandals that have beseiged his administration.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., of Tennessee, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said Nixon did not respond to his request that the President meet with the panel in a private but on-the-record question-and-answer session.

Other senators said Nixon's responses were frank, candid and thoughtful. Baker said: "I've never witnessed a more frank presidential conversation."

Following the session the President and Mrs. Nixon made an unexpected visit to a party for Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

It was the President's second surprise outing in less than a week and at the party he played a chorus of "Happy Birthday" on the piano for the 75-year-old Bennett. Party guests included eight of the senators who had met earlier with Nixon.

At the earlier session senator after senator said they stressed the need for disclosure if the administration is to regain some of the credibility they said has been lost in recent weeks over such issues as missing or non-existent tape recordings of presidential conversations about Watergate.

All Republican senators have been invited to meet with Nixon to offer advice and to ask questions.

Most of those in the Tuesday night session came from the beginning of the Senate alphabet. Most of them said few questions of substance bearing on the facts of Watergate were asked.

Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett of Oklahoma said Nixon appeared to be ready to make full disclosure "concerning all the accusations that have been made against him."

Bartlett and New Mexico Sen. Peter V. Domenici said the President left no doubt that disclosures will include the facts behind favorable treatment alleged to have been given ITT and the dairy industry in return for large contributions to Nixon's re-election campaign.

They also said the President appears prepared to offer a more complete accounting of the acquisition of his estates at San Clemente, Calif. and Key Biscayne, Fla.

But they and other senators said the President still is searching for a forum in which disclosure can be made without interference with court proceedings before Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica.

Sen. Bill Brock of Tennessee said the President confirmed accounts given by White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., on how it was that two key presidential Watergate conversations never were recorded.

Domenici said Nixon told the senators that one tape of a conversation between Nixon and former White House counsel John W. Dean III "will clearly indicate the President was accurate in saying Dean was mistaken in some of his Watergate testimony."

After the meeting, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., told reporters nothing was said to change his opinion that Nixon has been so badly hurt by Watergate that he should resign.

Brooke said he raised the possibility of resignation with the President and that Nixon had told him he would not take that step.

Sen. James L. Buckley, Con.R-N.Y., called the meeting, "a good step in the right direction."

"I had the opportunity of telling the President directly that the critical fact with which he must cope is not to satisfy a court under normal rules of evidence but to satisfy a deeply skeptical public," Buckley said.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney of Florida said nearly all senators present told the President he must make a full report to the country. Gurney, a member of the Watergate committee, complained that until now the White House response has been too little, too late.

Gurney said Nixon appeared to agree that such a report must be made but said no details were discussed and no commitments made Sen. J. Glenn Beall Jr., of Maryland, said it was "a free and open exchange which we have not had before."

Nixon plans to complete his series of meetings with all Republican members of Congress and some Democrats by the end of the week.

Regulations on drug testing announced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Mental Health Director Harold P. Robb has distributed revised rules for using state mental patients to test new drugs.

The new regulations were distributed Tuesday.

Robb's first set of rules were criticized by some commission members and mental health researchers as being too strict.

Robb said testing could resume when the hospitals show they are ready to comply with the regulations, approved by the mental health commission.

Robb suspended testing and prepared his first set of rules after the Church of Scientology in St. Louis obtained letters — some more than 10 years old — that the church group said indicated that proper consent may not have been obtained before a patient was put in a testing program.

Most of the testing was at the Missouri Institute of Psychiatry, operated by the University of Missouri. Some testing also was done at the St. Louis and Farmington State hospitals.

Under Robb's new regulation, all proposals for research projects in a state facility must first be presented to a six-man research committee, four of whom must be present.

The committee is composed of one person not connected with the facility who represents the consumer interests, a doctor, three qualified mental health professionals and the mental health division's human relations officer.

Any projects concerning mentally retarded or developmentally disabled patients must also be approved by the governor's advisory council on developmental disabilities.

After receiving approval from the committee, the project director must obtain "voluntary informed consent" from each patient to be involved.

Explanation of the project to the patient, a relative and a member of the facility's research committee must include such things as the length of testing, dangers or side effects and assurances that there will be no punichment if the patient refuses to participate.

A voluntary or competent patient over 21 may waive the right to have a relative or attorney present. Patients under 21 must have a parent or guardian present.

A court-appointed guardian must be obtained for any patient declared incompetent and committed to the hospital by a court. The committing court also must approve the guardian's decision.

Patients may withdraw from the project at any time.

The regulation says a patient will automatically be withdrawn if he is "distressed, reluctant or indicates refusal."

"Developing this new regulation has been distressing to people," Robb said. "I understand that changes are upsetting, and I am grateful to the people who gave us the benefit of their advice and opinion. This final revision incorporates many of those suggestions.

"It is necessary that we make every effort to guard patients' rights, and I think this regulation will adequately protect patients and researchers.

Rationing plan envisions WW 11 type program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's contingency plan for rationing gasoline envisions a World War II-type program supervised by 6,000 local boards which would dole out coupons to each motorist.

But just how much gasoline each motorist could expect still has not been decided.

The plan, developed by the Office of Emergency Prepardness and modified over the years, is one of various options now being considered by the Nixon administration if gasoline rationing is required.

Both John A. Love, director of President Nixon's Energy Policy Office, and Secretary of the Interior Rogers C.B. Morton have said that rationing may be needed early next year.

Basically, the contingency plan calls for issuance of rationing checks or coupons to all motor vehicle owners. There would be two kinds of coupons, one for essential, the other for nonessential use.

The plan at this stage does not answer the question in the minds of most motorists: how much fuel will each individual be entitled to. That decision will be left to the administration to determine as supply demands.

Kenneth Lay, deputy undersecretary of the interior, said Tuesday a basic individual ration of 10 to 15 gallons per week for each motorist "is the most likely range, at this point."

Lay also said "active consideration" was being given to an early extension of mandatory fuel allocations at the wholesale level, which already apply to heating oil, to include gasoline and other petroleum products.

Mandatory allocation, however, would control gasoline distribution only at the wholesale level and motorists would still be free to buy gasoline wherever they can find it, until direct consumer rationing comes along to set limits on their purchasing.

The government figures that the gasoline-rationing contingency program would cost an estimated $170 million a year, including about $64 million for staffing the local boards with two clerks apiece.

The coupons issued would be non-transferrable and a signature would be required when a sale was made.

the move of eighth and ninth grade students to the new building will take place over the Christmas holidays.

Air conditioning estimates indicated that it will cost the school system $35,000 to air condition both the Morehouse and Tanner Street schools, Harbin said. The cost is about $21,000 for individual room air conditioners and about $14,000 for installation.

Harbin also announced that extra milk prices will be reduced from eight cents to four cents on Nov. 19. The price was raised to eight cents after a federal subsidy program ended. The program is now back in effect, enabling the school system to lower prices on extra milk.

Director says no way for prison at Steele

JEFFERSON CITY— Missouri Department of Corrections director George Camp says there is no possibility of a proposed maximum security prison ever being built at Steele, despite the state's expenditure of thousands of dollars in planning funds and the community's expenses in attempting to locate the facility in Pemiscot County.

In a statement to The Daily Standard Tuesday, Camp said he feels sorry for the people in the Steele area who were looking forward to the institution being built there and that he knows it is a great disappointment to them.

However, Camp stated that there are other factors to be taken into consideration to meet Missouri's needs in regard to maximum security institutions.

Camp said he regretted all the time, money and energy that had been expended on the Steele project.

"Steele is simply not the place to locate a maximum security prison," he added.

The Pemiscot County city was selected by former corrections director Fred Wilkinson as the site for a 500- prisoner, maximum security unit after a wide search throughout the state.

Camp, who conferred with Wilkinson after being named by Gov. Chrisstopher S. Bond to the prison post, said he was convinced that no political considerations were involved in Wilkinson's selection of Steele. The Pemiscot County site came under heavy political fire during last year's gubernatorial campaign from both Bond and Democratic nominee Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis. Both pledged that, if elected, the selection would be changed.

Camp quoted Wilkinson as saying Steele was selected because of level ground, the willingness of the community to provide services and the availability of choice land.

Camp said that while these considerations were important, his own philosophy was that prisons should be located closer to prisoners' homes to facilitate visiting by relatives. He said he also felt that prisons should be "highly visible," in order that the public does not forget the correctional efforts being made.

The new prison director is proposing the construction of three regional- type institutions, one near Jefferson City and the other two near St. Louis and Kansas City.

1973, he said only 2,500 acres of county land had been expected to be surveyed.

"At present, Sikeston has been completed and approximately 3,000 acres of land have been surveyed," he stated.

If the survey continues this rapidly, Harlow said less money will be needed than expected in the beginning.

He told the mayors that donations are still being sought to cover the district's share of the salary for a district employe.

He said the County Court has agreed to pay the remaining portion of the salary for a district employe, but the court wants to know how much the towns were going to donate.

Several towns have already donated funds including Sikeston, $1,000; Chaffee, $300; Oran, $200; and Benton, $100.

Harlow said anyone who wants to make a contribution should mail it to Soil and Water Conservation Service, Box 165, Benton.

He added that donations are being received from a lot of different sources which eases the burden on the towns. "We have received approximately $10,000 from various clubs and organizations," he said.

Riley waives indictment on possession charge

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Charles Riley, 42, of 1115 S. Sprigg is to appear in Federal District Court here at 9:30 a.m. Thursday on a charge of possession of an illegal firearm — a sawed- off shotgun.

Riley was in court Monday with his attorney and waived a federal grand jury indictment, permitting the court to file its own information. He is accused of having the gun in his possession at his home address on Oct. 31.

The attorney said that, for now, his client would enter a plea of innocent and appear later in the week. He said time is needed to file pretrial motions.

At his arraignment Monday, Luther F. Swan, 55, of Poplar Bluff pleaded guilty to one count of an indictment charging him with selling firearms without a license. Judge James H. Meredith set sentencing for Nov. 19. A second count of the indictment was dropped.

The indictment charged Swan with selling the guns from March 20 to July 19, 1972 at Poplar Bluff.

Sentencing of Dr. George W. Ringland, a Cape Girardeau osteopath, on drug charges has been moved to Federal Court in St. Louis, where it will be imposed Dec. 3 at 10 a.m. Sentencing was previously set for Nov. 19 and was changed at the request of the defendant, the court order stated.

A jury here Nov. 3 found Dr. Ringland guilty on one count of illegal drug sales and four counts of failure to account for drugs in his possession. The doctor was ruled innocent on three additional counts of selling drugs illegally.

Judge Meredith Monday denied Dr. Ringland's motion for a new trial.

New ambulance law will present challenge to area

PORTAGEVILLE — Phillip Kelley, area community development specialist at the Delta Center in Portageville, says adjusting to the new ambulance law is quite difficult and presents "a real challenge for citizens of the Bootheel."

Kelley explained in a news release issued Monday that most of the detail required by law is not spelled out and will be issued as regulations from the State Division of Health.

"Specific licensing procedures for ambulances, attendants, attendant - drivers and mobile emergency medical technicians must be included in the reguations," he added.

In a rural area like Southeast Missouri, most ambulance service has been provided by funeral homes, Kelley said, and most funeral homes in this area have set Jan. 1, 1974, as the date they will discontinue ambulance service due to the added costs of complying with the new law.

The new law is primarily a licensing law, he said.

"Since the law does not require people to utilize the service if an emergency occurs on private property, it seems to be designed for emergency service on highways and in other public places," he added.

Reference in the law is made to the American College of Surgeon's list of essential equipment for ambulances, Kelley said. However, this is to be considered as a guide. Specific details of the requirements for ambulance vehicles will be included in the Division of Health regulations.

Since there has been considerable confusion on what the law does and does not do, Kelley offered suggestions at what will be required, but he cautioned that since much of the detail has not yet been spelled out, his comments should not be considered to be the final word.

The law will require licensing of people operating ambulances, as well as ambulance vehicles, which will also have to be inspected, Kelley said.

Other probable requirements include insurance on ambulances covering people and property, a specific list of equipment in the ambulance vehicle, including communications equipment, provision for other vehicles to help in case of major disaster.

Also, licensing of people operating ambulances as mobile emergency medical technicians, attendants, attendant- drivers, apprentices, registered nurses or physicians will be covered, and records will be required on trips the ambulances makes.

Kelley pointed out that the law does not require all that has been said it will require. He added that the following requirements are not in the law:

The law does not require the patient to be taken to the nearest hospital.

It does not require a licensed mobile medical technician with 200 hours of training to be in each ambulance.

Funeral homes are not required to get out of the ambualnce business, nor does the law require ambulances or attendants to be licensed before July 1974. People in the ambulance business may have up to six months after that date to fulfil requirements for licensing.

No business, individual, county, town or other political subdivision is required to use the ambulance service if an accident occurs on private property, for himself or for his employes.

The State Division of Health is not required to set ambulance charges but will be required to review rates set by ambulance services to see that they are reasonable.

Charleston may extend limits

CHARLESTON — The City Council, in a brief session Tuesday night, heard a report on disaster relief funds, approved a resolution calling for an extension of the city limits and adopted a special tax assessment ordinance.

Acting city manager Willis Downs informed the council that the city had been notified by letter from Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps that its application for federal finance assistance under the major disaster declaration had been approved in the amount of $28,367. Federal funds, approved by the office of emergency preparedness, will pay for repairs on streets and storm sewers, damaged by flooding last spring.

A resolution calling for the extension of the south city limits, located northwest of Interstate 57, was approved. The proposal will probably be included on the ballot in next April's city election. The property, owned by the Charleston Development Co., will be zoned for commercial use.

A bid of $5,599 from Courtesy Ford of Charleston for a two-ton truck to be used by the street department was accepted. Other bids included Galemore Motor Co. of Charleston, $6,209.84 and Simmons Equipment Co. of Charleston, $6,233.14.

Also accepted was a bid of $9,393.99 from Seymore and Seymore Trucking Co. of Charleston for material and labor on the installation of storm sewers near the Brown Shoe Co. John Cowan of Sikeston bid $9,542.30 and Paul Montgomery of Poplar Bluff submitted a bid of $12,850.

An ordinance levying a special assessment of $2.70 a front foot to property owners in the north two blocks of Heggie Street for street paving was adopted.

The Council approved the withdrawal of $36,785.90 in time deposit certificates for deposit to the general fund for operating expenses.

A request for a trailer permit for lot 13, block two of Deal Street was granted William Farquhar.

The council also approved a request for the police to check the Chamber of Commerce building on Plant Road, formerly occupied by Basler Electric Co. once every 24 hours for insurance purposes.

Downs was authorized to seek prices on hams to be given city employes and officials for Christmas.

The Council tabled action on a purchase of an auxiliary power system for the city hall until a full council was present.

A $100 contribution will be made to the Chamber of Commerce to be used toward costs of the Christmas parade.

White receives promotion

Doug White

Douglas M. White, who has been sales manager at the Sikeston J. C. Penney Co. store, has been promoted to assistant manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store at Indian Springs Mall in Kansas City, Kan., effective next Monday.

William H. Mawhiney of Pittsburg, Kan., will take White's place at the Kingsway Plaza Mall store the same day.

White, a native of Delta, joined J. C. Penney Co. in 1961 at the Cape Girardeau store. He also worked in Penney stores in Owensboro, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., before coming to Sikeston.

He and his wife Judy have two children, Randall, 8, and Lisa, 4. The Whites attend Murray Lane Baptist Church where he serves as a deacon.

White attended Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau.

Pemiscot farmer is first to receive loan

CARUTHERSVILLE — The nation's first Farmers Home Administration guaranteed loan under the Rural Development Act of 1972 was received recently in Pemiscot County.

The conditional commitment for $42,500 was received by Roy Cooper Jr., Farmers Home Administration county supervisor for Pemiscot County, and presented to Francis Waggoner, manager of the Caruthersville Federal Land Bank Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Duncan of Bragg City Route One will receive the loan from the Federal Land Bank to purchase and develop an 80- acre farm near Bragg City. Duncan also farms other land in the county, and Mrs. Duncan is a teacher in the Kennett school system.

Under the new program, FHA guarantees the loan to the other lender. At this time, guaranteed loans are available under the farm ownership, soil and water, recreational operating and emergency loan programs. In the near future, rural housing loans will also be available under the program.

Under farm ownership guaranteed loans, the maximum limit is $100,000 with a repayment period of not more than 40 years. The borrower must be eligible under FHA reguiations, and the farm must be a family-sized unit.

Authority to make the loans was granted Oct. 29. "The speed with which this loan was handled illustrates the excellent working relationship between FHA and Federal Land Bank in Pemiscot County," Harry Littleton of Sikeston, FHA district supervisor, said.

All federal or state supervised lending institutions are eligible to participate in the program, and other lenders or individuals may make application to Farmers Home Administration for approval.

Farmers Home Administration is the credit agency of the United States Department of Agriculture serving rural America with over 1,600 county office units.

Merideth earns driving award

Ken Merideth, MFA Oil Co. bulk plant manager in Sikeston, recently received the MFA Insurance Co. Safe Driver Award. Jim Thompson, Sikeston, MFA Oil Co. District Sales Manager, presented the award, which was for six years of safe driving.

MFA Insurance Co. established the awards program for the purpose of recognizing outstanding contributions to public safety by truck drivers. Awards are presented to drivers who have proven their skill in avoiding traffic accidents. A man earns his first award by driving 24 consecutive months without having a chargeable accident. Additional years are added as they are earned.

Benjamin Banneker was a Negro surveyor who served on Pierre L'Enfant's commission which designed and surveyed the street layout of Washington, D.C., in 1791. The World Almanac recalls. In 1793, Banneker proposed that a Secretary of Peace be appointed to the President's cabinet.

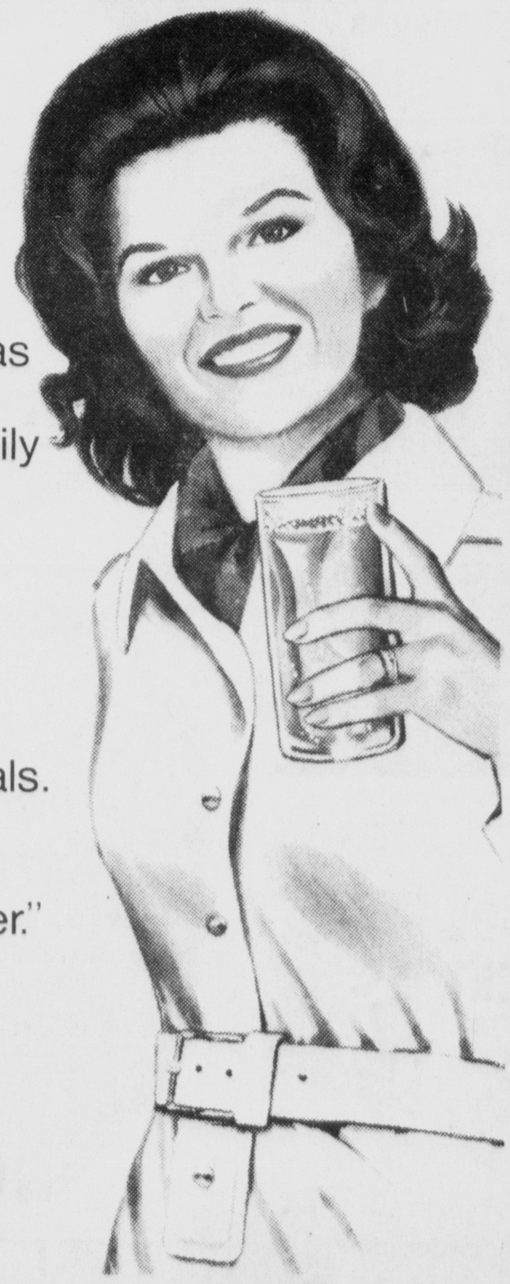
ANITA BRYANT SAYS:

"Really, with the price of 100% pure orange juice from Florida so low... why buy imitations."



According to official government figures* the average price of all brands and forms of 100% pure orange juice from Florida is about the same today as it was back in September of 1971. Just one reason why you should serve all the orange juice your family wants. If you need any other reasons – remember:

- It's 100% pure orange juice – no chemical or synthetic additives.
- It has a lot more nutrition than just Vitamin C. It's a NATURAL blend of B-Vitamins and minerals.
- It's a NATURAL "pick-me-up" because its NATURAL sugars make it a NATURAL energizer."

Lecture to be given at Ramada Thursday

Mind control will be the topic of a lecture to be presented twice Thursday at Ramada Inn.

The lectures are scheduled at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. Admission will be charged.

"The key to using more of your mind is to learn to function at lower brain frequencies, the meditation levels which science calls the alpha frequencies," says Jose Silva, founder of Silva Mind Control, which began research in Laredo, Tex., to see if it was possible to increase a person's intelligence quotient factor.

As research in alpha brain waves continued, Silva reportedly discovered that not only could IQ be increased, but a person trained to enter the lower brain wave levels could even control certain areas of the autonomic nervous system, heart beat, respiration, blood pressure, etc.

Some students have reported that, with mind control, one could banish pain, accelerate healing and eliminate insomnia and migraine headaches, as well as untold psychosomatic problems.

Since the findings about the alpha studies were released to the general public in 1966, about 200,000 people reportedly have taken the course in 10 countries.

Lecture spokesmen say that by directing and controlling the powers of the mind, a person can learn better and faster, as well as learn to improve skills such as concentration, memory, creative imagination and verbal and artistic expression.

'Charley Varrick' now at Mall

"Charley Varrick", now showing at Mall Theater, was filmed during the summer of 1972, according to Mrs. Maxine Scott of Sikeston, who was on location at the time with her daughter, Jacqueline Scott, who co-stars with Walter Matthau in the fast moving film.

Miss Scott plays Matthau's wife Nadine, who drives the getaway car when the two of them knock over banks, just small ones that are easier to rob, and the legal heat that follows a paltry $15,000 to $25,000 heist dissipates quickly.

Purely by accident, Charley and Nadine make it big in Tres Cruces, N. M., when they rob the Western Fidelity Bank, a conduit for Mafia money being shipped out of the country. In the space of a few minutes, the robbery nets $750,000.

That kind of money in that kind of bank spells only one thing: the Syndicate. How and whether Charley can outwit and outmaneuver the mob, the law and his fatally brash sidekick provide this Don Siegel film with a narrative excitement that more than matches his most recent box office success, "Dirty Harry".

"Charley Varrick" is rated PG (parental guidance suggested). Some material may not be used for pre-teen-agers."

At Malco Twin Cinema II is "The Valachi Papers", starring Charles Bronson. Rated R. Starting Friday at Cinema II is "Jesus Christ Superstar", a musical presentation starring Ted Neely. Rated G (general audience).

Miss Scott co-stars

Walter Matthau, left, comforts his injured wife, portrayed by Jacqueline Scott, formerly of Sikeston, who co-stars in the film, "Charley Varrick", now playing at Mall Theater.

Now playing at the downtown Malone Theater is "The Misadventures of Merlin Jones" and "Nikki, Wild Dog of the North". Both films are rated G.

"Trick Baby", starring Kiel Martin and Mel Stewart will begin Sunday at the Malone. The movie based on the noval by Iceberg Slim, is rated R.

Meatless supper: turn hot cooked cornmeal mush into a shallow baking dish and top with tomato sauce and grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven until bubbly hot. Use homemade tomato sauce prepared with canned tomatoes, onion, green pepper, celery, carrot and seasonings.

Baker in new film

Former resident heads Land Co.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A former Sikeston, Mo., man has been president for seven years of a company that owns four per cent of all the private land in Arizona, but yet is little known in that state.

George Marvin Rayburn of Phoenix, Ariz., heads the New Mexico and Arizona Land Co., which owns 590,000 acres, 460,000 of which are in Arizona. The company was chartered in 1908 in Arizona.

Rayburn, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Rayburn of Sikeston, served as vice president and secretary-treasurer of Frisco Railroad Co. in St. Louis before moving to Arizona. Frisco owns a little more than half the stock of the land company and, since its start, has supplied managerial services.

Rayburn had been president of New Mexico and Arizona Land Co. since 1966, serving simultaneously as vice president, secretary and treasurer of Frisco. He resigned the Frisco posts in February 1972 to devote full time to the land company when increased activities necessitated the change.

George M. Rayburn

For years, New Mexico and Arizona Land Co. contented itself with grazing leases to ranchers.

The company now owns 1,900 acres in Winslow where a major shopping center is planned for next spring. In Flagstaff, the company has 48 apartments and zoning approval for more.

Other land is being used for a development in a light industrial area, a retail facility, irrigated farms and others. The company also has mineral rights to one per cent of the total area of Arizona and New Mexico, and is the world's largest producer of petrified wood, according to one vice president.

Rayburn is a 1937 graduate of Sikeston High School and a 1941 graduate of Washington University in St. Louis.

Rhyne attained the grand diamond level in the W. Clement Stone International Sales and Achievement Club.

The award was presented for "consistently outstanding sales records, which reflect not only a high degree of professional skill but also an understanding of the needs and problems of policyholders."

The Sales and Achievement Club is named after Combined's board chairman, who originated the unique system used by representatives to market the company's travel accident policies and other accident, health and life coverage.

What's the law?

The case of the amorous cadet

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Willie didn't like the diet at the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy. While vegetarians live without meat, cadets at the academy were required to live without love. In fact, not only was there a rule against cadets marrying, upon entering the institution they were obliged to agree specifically not to wed until after graduation.

Unable to stand the strain of the amourless diet, Willie finally married his curvacious girl friend. After the bride was given away, however, Willie was sent away. His marriage came to the attention of Academy officials and he was bounced from the institution.

Taking exception to his dismissal, Willie took the matter to court.

"The dismissal was absolutely proper," insisted the Academy officials. "Willie clearly violated our rules and got married despite his agreement not to do so."

"While love holds no bait for a celibate," responded Willie, "I'm no celeibate. I'm a red- blooded, girl- loving American boy. And any rule or agreement that says I can't get married can't be legal or binding."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the dismissal of amorous Willie?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that there was no compelling government necessity shown to justify a rule restraining Merchant Marine cadets from marrying. What's more, concluded the judge, the government could not contractually require a cadet to give up his constitutional right to marry.

COOKING-UP

By NADINE S. TOWNSEND

It's cookie baking time again! Most of take a vacation from baking during the hot summer, but with cool fall days, kids looking for after-school snacks and the holidays just around the corner, the urge to bake returns.

Cookie recipes featured this week -- some new, some old -- are all easy to make. In fact, my 13-year- old daughter specializes in making the brownies and peanut butter cookies.

A variety of flavors are included, so try them; and you're sure to find a family favorite.

ORANGE SLICE COOKIES

Cookie
- 4 eggs
- 3 tbsp. cold water
- 2 cups brown sugar
- ½ tsp. salt
- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup chopped nutes
- 1 cup coconut
- 1 lb. orange slice gumdrop-type candies, sliced

Icing
- 1 stick oleo
- ¼ cup orange juice
- 1 box confectioners sugar
- 1 tsp. orange rind
- dash of salt

Beat together eggs with cold water. Add sugar and then salt and flour. Add nuts, coconut and cut up orange slice candies.

Bake in a 12x15- inch pan for 35 minutes at 350 degrees. When partially cool, ice with icing. Cut into bars.

FAVORITE PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

- 2 cups flour
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 cup soft shortening
- 1 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- 1 cup peanut butter
- 2 tbsp. vanilla
- 1 tsp. water

Sift together flour, baking soda and salt. Put remaining ingredients into large bowl, beat for two minutes, scraping bowl and beaters. Add sifted flour mixture and beat one minute.

Drop by teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Press lightly with fork which has been dipped in flour. Bake for 10-12 minutes at 325 degrees. Yields approximately seven dozen.

ANGEL COOKIES

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup shortening
- ½ cup brown sugar
- ½ cup white granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 cups flour
- 1 tsp. cream of tartar
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- ½ tsp. salt
- ½ cup chopped pecans

Cream butter and shortening and sugars. Add remaining ingredients in order given.

Chill dough, then form into balls the size of walnuts or smaller.

Dip top half in cold water, then in sugar. Place on greased cookie sheet, sugar side up. Leave about an inch between cookies as they spread in baking. Bake at 425 degrees. Yields approximately four dozen.

BROWNIES-A-PLENTY

- 4 squares unsweetened chocolate
- ¾ cup oleo
- 6 whole eggs
- 3 cups sugar
- 2 cups flour
- ½ tsp. salt
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- 2 tsp. vanilla

Melt chocolate and oleo. Beat eggs and add sugar. Mix flour and salt, then add to egg and sugar mixture. Stir in oleo, chocolate, nuts and vanilla.

Bake in two oiled shallow pans 12-15 minutes at 450 degrees. Cool in pan and cut into squares. Store in tightly covered container.

PUMPKIN COOKIES

- 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 cup cooked or canned pumpkin
- ½ cup oil
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 cup flour
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- ½ tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. cinnamon
- ½ tsp. nutmeg
- ¼ tsp. ginger

(Note: 1¼ tsp. pumpkin pie spice may be substituted for the three spices listed above)
- 1 cup raisins
- ½ cup chopped nuts.

In mixing bowl beat together sugar, pumpkin, oil and vanilla. Sift together dry ingredients; add and stir until smooth. Blend in raisins and nuts.

Drop by spoonful on greased baking sheet. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes three to four dozen. No eggs needed in these moist, soft cookies.

FROZEN CANDIED FRUIT COOKIE

- 1 cup oleo
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 1 egg
- 2½ cups flour
- ¼ tsp. cream of tartar
- ½ cup pecans, chopped
- ½ cup chopped candied fruit
- 1 cup whole candied cherries

Cream oleo and sugar together; beat in the egg. Stir in dry ingredients; blend in pecans, fruit and cherries.

Form into small rolls. Wrap and freeze.

Slice very thin. Bake on greased cookie sheet for 6-8 minutes at 375 degrees. Remove from cookie sheet and cool on rack.

CARAMEL NUT SLICES

- 1 cup soft shortening
- 2 cups brown sugar, packed
- 2 eggs
- 3½ cups flour
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1 cup finely chopped nuts

Mix well shortening, sugar and eggs. Sift together flour, salt and baking soda. Stir into shortening, sugar and egg mixture. Add nuts.

Shape in two rolls two inches across. Chill. Heat oven to 400 degrees. Slice dough 1/8 inch thick. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet 8-10 minutes. Makes about 12 dozen.

Dough keeps in refrigerator several weeks. Slice when needed. Chop nuts fine for easy slicing of roll. Cookies spread very little during baking, so place fairly close together on cookie sheet.

How to roast your Thanksgiving turkey

TO ROAST TURKEY:

Remove plastic bag, remove neck and giblets from cavities, rinse turkey and pat dry. Cook neck and giblets for broth and for flavoring dressing and giblet gravy.

Stuff turkey loosely with favorite stuffing, allowing 3/4 cup stuffing per pound of oven-ready weight.

Fasten down legs by tying or tucking under skin band and skewer neck skin to back, twist akimbo under bird.

Place on rack in shallow roasting pan, breast side up. Brush with butter, and if roast-meat thermometer is used, insert into the thick part of thigh.

Turkey is done when:
- (a) Roast-meat thermometer registers 180-185 degrees F.
- (b) Thick part of drumstick feels soft when pressed with thumb and forefinger.
- (c) Drumstick and thigh move easily.

Time chart for roasting stuffed turkey in preheated 325 degree oven:

Because turkeys vary from one to another due to conformation, variety, etc., cooking times can be only approximate. Because of this it would be well to allow an extra half hour of roasting time in case the turkey needs that extra cooking. Check for doneness during last hour of roasting.

| Ready-To-Cook Weight | Approximate Cooking Time |
|---|---|
| 6 lbs. | 3 hours |
| 8 lbs. | 3-1/2 hours |
| 12 lbs. | 4-1/2 hours |
| 16 lbs. | 5-1/2 hours |
| 20 lbs. | 6-1/4 hours |

DIRECTIONS FOR CARVING

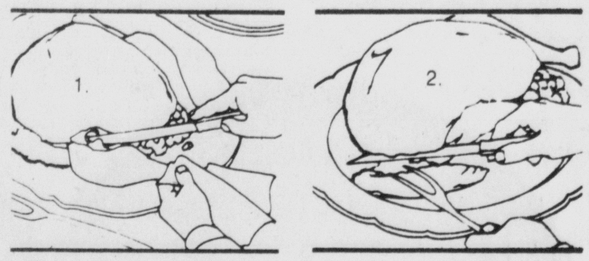
- Let turkey stand 15 to 20 minutes before carving.
- With knife or scissors, cut band of skin holding legs.
- Place turkey in front of carver along with carving knife, long pronged fork, paper napkin and dinner plates.



Grasp drumstick. Place knife between thigh and body of turkey and cut through skin to joint. Remove entire leg by pulling out and back using point of knife to disjoint it. Separate thigh and drumstick at joint. Remove meat from drumstick and thigh.

Insert fork firmly into upper wing to steady turkey. With knife make a long cut above wing joint through to body frame. If desired, wing can be disjointed from body.

Slice straight down with an even stroke beginning halfway up the breast. When knife reaches cut above wing bone, slice will fall free.

Continue slicing white meat by starting cut at a higher point each time until crest of bone is reached.

Homemade goodies are the best!

This year send the sweetest of all holiday greetings from your kitchen for enjoyment now and later. Select easy recipes -- Cranberry Strawberry Jam and Citrus Jelly, for example -- using seasonal fruit and liquid fruit pectin. Perfect for gift- giving in festive wrappings to add a gala touch.

Gifts of sharing -- gifts that signify time you've spent creating them -- that's what makes Christmas meaningful. Weeks of preparation and anticipation gain momentum as festively wrapped packages arrive on the holiday scene. Why not add a new dimension to shopping lists with creative gifts from your kitchen this year. It's another way of keeping an eye on the budget, too.

Select a few recipes you know will be rave successes. Citrus Jelly, for example, that's a breeze to make and "so inexpensive." Simply round up the ingredients: oranges, lemons, sugar, and Certo Fruit Pectin. Just follow recipe directions using the short boil method. This way, none of the delicate fruit flavor has a chance to evaporate in steam, yet consistency and set will be just right.

A second recipe -- Cranberry and Strawberry Jam -- marries the flavor of fresh cranberries with frozen strawberries. This tasty blend is sure to enhance the traditional holiday dinner, so keep a few jars in your own cupboard.

Show off your gifts with an artful touch. Begin now to save empty glass jars with tight-fitting lids to use as containers for your jam and jelly. Spray-paint the lids, or decorate with fancy gold doilies and seals. Add a sprinkle of glitter, crown with sprigs of green or ripples of ribbons.

CRANBERRY STRAWBERRY JAM

- 4 cups prepared fruit (2 cups fresh cranberries and 2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen strawberries in quick thaw pouch
- 5½ cups (2 lb. 6 oz.) sugar
- ½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Grind 2 cups cranberries. Thaw strawberries as directed on package. Combine ground cranberries with thawed strawberries and measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the jam. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit in saucepan. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses and cover at once with 1/8 inch hot paraffin. Or use glasses with tight- fitting lids. Makes about 6½ cups or 9 (6-fl. oz.) glasses.

Note: Cranberries may be chopped in an electric blender, if desired. Place in blender a few at a time so that the blades are just covered. Turn from low to high until berries are finely chopped (not pureed).

CITRUS JELLY

- 2 cups orange juice (6 medium oranges)
- ¼ cup lemon juice (2 medium lemons)
- 3½ cups (1½ lb.) sugar
- ½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

First prepare the juice. Squeeze and strain the juice from 6 oranges and 2 lemons. Measure 2 cups of orange juice and ¼ cup lemon juice into a large saucepan.

Then make the jelly. Thoroughly mix sugar into juice in saucepan. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. At once stir in fruit pectin. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon, and pour quickly into glasses and cover at once with 1/8 inch hot paraffin. Or use glasses with tight- fitting lids. Makes 3¼ cups or about 4 (6-fl. oz.) glasses.

Note: Jelly may be slow in setting.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Prompt consideration of proposals is assured

WASHINGTON, D.C. — As we approach winter this year, increased demands for fuel and anticipated import reductions have brought us to the edge of a major energy shortage. Without complete nationwide cooperation, the shortage can only grow more serious.

In Missouri, natural gas, propane and heating oil shortages threaten to close industries and put people out of work. So far, I have heard from 21 companies that have written, wired or called that they face impending shutdowns.

Truckers and airlines also expect shortages. Truckers have a need for 15 percent more diesel fuel this winter than last, yet they expect to receive 15 percent less. Airlines have already cut back the number of domestic flights, and will probably have to cut further.

On November 7, in a televised address on the energy emergency facing this Nation, the President called on all Americans to join in conservation measures to reduce fuel consumption and asked for programs to increase our energy supply.

We support this effort. Thermostats in my office have been reduced to 68 degrees and we are carrying out this worthwhile conservation measure in our homes.

For some ten months, many of us in the Senate and the House have been deeply concerned and have acted to provide the President with additional tools to deal with energy problems. These actions include the Eagleton Amendment to the Economic Stabilization Act which provided the authority for the Administration to implement both the mandatory and voluntary petroleum allocation program under which we are now operating.

At this time additional legislation is being considered in both the Senate and the House to further spell out authority and direction for mandatory allocation of petroleum products.

By the time this letter reaches Missouri, we expect the Trans- Alaska Pipeline bill authorizing rights- of- way across Federal lands and insuring protection of the environment, will have been passed and sent to the President for signature. With this authority, the Alaskan pipeline should be in operation by 1977 and by 1980 it should carry 2 million barrels of oil a day from the North Alaskan slope reserves which contain at least 10 billion barrels of oil.

Last May the Senate passed S. 70 to establish a White House Council on Energy Policy with responsibility for coordination and direction of the more than 60 Federal agencies involved in energy matters.

The Council would also be responsible for preparation of a much needed long- range national energy plan to be updated every year.

Another bill, S. 1283, which I co- sponsored, is the proposed National Energy Research and Development Policy Act. This bill would set a national goal to make the United States self- sufficient in energy by 1983 through development and utilization of available domestic resources.

To achieve self- sufficiency, the Energy Research and Development bill would call for creation of five Federal-industry corporations to speed research activities and action in (1) coal gasification, (2) shale oil production, (3) advanced power cycles, (4) geothermal resources and (5) coal liquification.

S. 1283 would also authorize additional funding for research and development in solar energy, fusion processes, low- head hydroelectric power, electrical energy storage methods, tidal power and utilization of waste products for fuels.

The Congress has assured the President that prompt attention will be given to his recent energy proposals as well as those on which the Congress has initiated action.

Failure to face the current energy shortage can only result in ever greater fuel shortages which in turn would increase the threat to the economic and physical security of our country.

ILLEGAL PARKING in London gets this "Z" wagon treatment. The "Z" wagon operates hydraulically and at the touch of a button can whisk away a big Rolls Royce in three minutes. The careless parker's bugaboo costs around $25,000.

Corn harvest hampered by rains

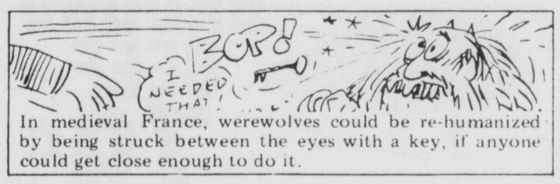
COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Excessive rains and high water are causing problems in Missouri's corn harvest, a crop expert said Monday.

"As soon as corn is mature, the stalks become more susceptible to stalk rots and breakage," said Einar W. Palm, Extension plant pathology specialist at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

"This in turn can expose ears to rots that can become serious under high moisture conditions."

Palm said incidence of injury from rot varies from year to year, but is closely correlated with the amount of rain during August, September and October. Losses are usually greatest when rainfall during the period is above normal, as has been the case in Missouri this year.



In medieval France, werewolves could be re-humanized by being struck between the eyes with a key, if anyone could get close enough to do it.

Don't cook eggs in the shell in an aluminum pan because the metal will darken badly. Use a stainless steel, enamel or glass pan when you are preparing soft or hard-cooked eggs.

Mrs. Bond offers conservation tips

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Christopher S. Bond, wife of the Missouri governor, offered some tips Tuesday to homemakers who want to conserve energy.

Mrs. Bond, who says she will use candles this Christmas instead of the traditional Christmas lights in the governor's mansion, made these recommendations:

—In using the oven, complete meals should be cooked rather than single dishes whenever possible, since this will maximize the use of heat. Food should be pre-thawed, a frozen roast, for example, requires 50 per cent more cooking time than one already defrosted.

—Except for baking pastries, there is no need to preheat the oven.

—Ovens, refrigerators and freezers should be checked to ensure they are not losing heat or cold. The doors should not be opened excessively.

—Refrigerators should be kept between 37 and 42 degrees. Non-forst-free freezers should be defrosted before one-fourth inch of ice accumulates to increase cooling capability.

—Lower your thermostat at night by several degrees. A night setback clock does this automatically. When you are away for several days or more, keep the inside temperature as low as you can without letting the water pipes freeze.

—Don't place objects in front of heating or cooling registers.

—Hot water conservation can be accomplished by fixing leaky faucets. Showers use much less water than tub baths.

Mrs. Bond said a faucet that drips once every second can waste as much as 2,500 gallons a year.

—Adequate insulation can save up to 15 per cent annually infuel costs. This includes weather-stripping under doors, insulation material in the attic, and the use of storm windows.

—Set the thermostat on your heating system as low as you can without sacrificing comfort. From 65-68 is suggested. Each degree over that uses 1.5 per cent more energy.

Heating systems should be checked at least annually for leaks. Furnace filters should be kept clean for maximum heating efficiency.

—Close the damper on your chimney when it is not in use. Otherwise, you could be losing valuable heat.

—Avoid wasting hot water while laundering. Use the cold and warm water settings as much as possible to cut down on the energy needed to heat water.

Get the right size appliance for your needs. A 20-pound washer may allow you to do a week's wash, thus using less power than several loads in a smaller machine. Wait until you have a full wash before using the machine.

—Fluorescent lighting is more economical and efficient than incandescent.

For example, Mrs. Bond says, a 40-watt fluorescent lamp produces more light than a 100-watt incandescent bulb at half the cost and will last almost 10 times longer.

—Match your pots and pans to the size of the stove burners. A pot that's too small for a burner will allow extra heat to escape. Put your pots and pans on the range before the heat is turned on so you won't waste heat.

Keep two recipes files, one for recipes you have clipped, tried and found good; one for recipes you plan to try. A cluttered recipe file is discouraging to any cook!

Save 10¢. And let your taste settle the salad dressing question, once and for all.

In salad dressing, it's flavor that counts. Miracle Whip Salad Dressing's lively fresh flavor comes from a special blend of spices and a blending secret that is Kraft's alone. Miracle Whip is perfect just the way it is. Once you compare it with some of the "me-too" dressings we're sure you'll agree, no matter what, there's only one Miracle Whip. And that's why Miracle Whip makes a sandwich, a salad, seafood or cold cuts taste so fresh and lively. And why Miracle Whip is America's favorite salad dressing.

Alaskan oil reserves needed

Despite reservations which led me to vote against this bill when it was before the Senate, I will support the conference report to permit immediate exploitation of our Alaskan oil reserves. No domestic program today has greater priority, in my opinion, than dealing with our deepening energy crisis.

The Arab embargo of oil sales to this country, while not itself the cause of the problem, has sharply aggravated energy shortages which have been in prospect for some time. This winter we could fall as much as 20% short of what we require.

No longer can we talk about fuel problems in terms of inconvenience to motorists or higher prices at the gas pump. Today, quite literally, the economic and social well-being of this nation is on the line.

Even before the Middle East boycott, a study by the Stanford Research Institute concluded that "without immediate action on the energy front, there could be an ominous flattening of the economic growth rate of the United States between 1975 and 1980" from the 4.2% needed for a healthy economy to a mere 1.6%. That could mean a depression rate of unemployment in the range of 10 to 12 per cent.

MISSOURI SHUTDOWNS

Early warning signs of such an economic impact are already present. In the last three weeks, my office alone received complaints from 20 Missouri companies warning of shutdowns or cutbacks unless they can be assured of adequate supplies of gas and other fuels. For example, the refractories industry around Mexico and Vandalia is threatened with mass shutdowns, which would throw 4,000 Missourians out of work, because of the scarcity of propane and natural gas.

As one constituent put it, "What good does it do for me to have an allocation of heating fuel for my home if I don't have a job so I can pay the bill."

The energy emergency we now face might have been ameliorated had the Administration heeded Congressional warnings of more than a year ago when Missouri suffered fuel shortages. The attitude then was that it was a temporary and localized problem, not requiring Federal action. That was the position, too, when the Administration opposed my fuel allocation amendment last Spring.

In the days ahead, the American people will be asked to make many sacrifices and Congress will have difficult decisions as it attempts to balance competing objectives. Among other things that will mean rethinking some of the requirements and timetables of our environmental program.

In the long run, I am convinced that with wise use of existing energy resources and a concerted program to develop new ones we can avoid some of the calamitous events being predicted. But it will take the best we have as a people to meet the challenge.

1976 campaign gets early start

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 presidential campaign has already started, three years before the next election and one year after politicians vowed to prevent a repetition of the seemingly endless 1972 campaign.

If anything, the preliminary maneuvering is ahead of the 1972 pace with both parties involved in the initial soundings.

The basic reason for the advance planning is a belief that it takes several years to put together the kind of organization needed to capture the presidency, and a fear that any candidate who delays may find someone else has gotten there first.

The early start indicates that the long 1972 campaign of Sen. George McGovern, in which he declared formal candidacy a full year ahead of the usual starting time, may become the rule next time around.

Among the Republicans, Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Democrat John Connally of Texas and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois have started moving around the country, making speeches and extending their GOP contacts.

They will likely be active next year in the 1974 congressional and gubernatorial campaign, along with Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who has decided against seeking a third term. Already the favorite of GOP conservatives, he plans to launch an ambitious national speaking tour in 1975.

Percy is the farthest advanced towards a candidacy. He has announced formation of an Exploratory Committee to guide his decision and has started research on a possible race.

Other GOP possibilities such as Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson have received valuable television exposure but have yet to make any overt moves toward candidacy.

Among Democrats, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington is the most active. Some say he never stopped campaigning after his unsuccessful 1972 bid.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota says he is interested, has been traveling around a lot and is expected to launch some kind of campaign committee next year.

Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas has raised a $300,000 kitty to finance his work as chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee while saying he will decide at the end of 1974 whether a presidential bid is feasible.

Aides to Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace make clear he will run if his health permits. They have avidly followed the work of a party commission revising Democratic delegate selection rules.

Two others who have expressed interest, Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio and Sen. Birch E. Bayh of Indiana, face 1974 tests at the polls before they can decide whether to embark on a presidential race.

The biggest question mark for the Democrats is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. He leads the early polls but has done little and indicates he won't move before 1975.

Kennedy is likely to be the most active of all Democratic campaigners in 1974. However, he has also indicated he might run for re-election to the Senate in 1976 rather than seek the presidency.

As for the remaining veterans of the 1972 campaign, McGovern denied a recent report he might run again, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says he won't seek the nomination but could be available at a deadlocked convention, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie indicates he could be interested.

Then, there are the dark horses. Gov. Daniel Walker of Illinois, for example, recently raised some money in Beverly Hills, Calif., a traditional financial stop for Democrats. The assumption was he had a national race in mind.

When they get ready to move, they won't find an empty track.

The Missouri: some feel she is principal river

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Its headwaters are the trickling drops from Rocky Mountain cliffs, released from snow mass by the warming spring sun.

From points just east of Yellowstone National Park in northwest Wyoming and northeast Idaho the waters descend the mountainous terrain.

At tiny Three Forks, Mont., they are disgorged by the rivers Gallatin, Jefferson and Madison into a common bed they will share for more than 4,000 miles — the long, meandering sojourn through deep valleys, across arid and semiarid plains, into the heavily wooded temperate zones and ultimately into the Gulf of Mexico.

It is another cycle of the Missouri River, the "Pekitanoui," as Father Marquette called it by its Indian name in 1673.

Downstream, to its junction with the Mississippi River above St. Louis, millions of persons rely on the Missouri's cycle with hardly a thought of it.

The Missouri's impact on the nation may not seem as readily apparent as the impact on the 9.2 million persons who draw their water supply from the main stem. The Missouri's watershed, however, reaches into 10 states—Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri— and represents one-fourth of the nation's agricultural land. The Missouri and its tributaries provide more than 15 million acrefeet of irrigation, much of it for land which otherwise would be useless to man. And nine of the states in the basin accounted for 54.7 per cent of the 1.54 billion bushels of wheat grown in the United States in 1972.

The basin states also regularly produce 30 per cent of the nation's sorghum, barley and sugar beets, 20 per cent of the corn and oats and 40 per cent of the rye—and one-fourth of the nation's red-meat animals.

The earliest European explorers were awestruck by the physical extremes of the river. Elevations range from more than 14,000 feet to less than 400 feet, making it a frothy raceway in parts of the upper reaches and a wide, sluggish behemoth along the old river valley in the south.

As early as October 1717 there is evidence of a feeling shared over the years by many geologists that the Missouri—not the Mississippi—is the principal river of the nation's heartland. In a memorandum to the Council of Marines in France, Sieur Hubert of the Colony of Louisiana wrote:

"Those who have ascended the Missouri assert that there is the real course of the Mississippi, and that the latter should legitimately bear the name of the Missouri."

Jacob V. Brower, 19th century geographer, said the Mississippi was labeled a separate stream only because it was discovered first. "Had the discovery of this principal and chief river proceeded from the west toward the east, there would have been but one name for its entire course from the Continental Divide to the Gulf of Mexico," he wrote in "The Missouri River and its Utmost Source."

Since the recession of the glaciers and for at least 11,000 years, the Missouri has been, on the whole, a good host to man. It meant life in much of the plains, which without this waterway would be extremely inhospitable. Yet it was—and is—capable also of unleashing devastating floods.

As environmentalists like to point out, "The Indian had enough sense to put his tent on a hill."

In the lower basin where limestone cliffs border flood plains as wide as 17 miles, the free river could stretch across the breadth and advance with such force as to denude the land of even the most firmly rooted trees.

Despite an elaborate system of dams, revetments and levees, the mighty river continues to assert itself periodically. Some of the most severe floods occurred in the lower basin in 1951 and 1952. Destruction was estimated at more than $2.4 billion and at least 300 persons perished.

Last spring the Missouri again demonstrated its immense power. More than 800,000 acres were flooded from Kansas City to the mouth and damage was estimated at $15.2 million.

Brazil 'right on' as export nation

By Bruce Biossat

WASHINGTON (NEA)

With the world taking fright over its capacity to sustain itself through vital resources, it's a pleasure to report on the determined opening up of Brazil, one of its great yet hitherto largely untapped storehouses.

The story has many facets. This huge Latin land, a bit bigger than the United States, has immense stocks of iron ore, barely touched. It is presumed to have other extensive mineral reserves, unknown still as to kind and real size.

Manufacturing is growing apace. A new, brief Brookings Institution report devoted fundamentally to the "trading greats," meaning North America, Europe and Japan, made passing reference to Brazil as an example of a nation growing through the building of its exports.

To speed its development, Brazilians are cutting long new swaths of highway through previously "impenetrable" jungles — one even traversing the sprawling Amazon river basin from east to west.

But let's dwell here on just a piece of the story. Soybeans. Big in this country now for animal feeds and oils, and a high cash-value crop longer than many Americans realize. In demand elsewhere, too, particularly in Japan, where soybeans spell food and they've depended on us for 90 per cent of their consumption.

When President Nixon for a while slapped export limits on our soybean output, he hit the Japanese where they live. And suddenly Brazil popped into the picture, as Japan let loose the word it's been eyeing that Latin country as a new and possibly, in time, sizable alternative supply source.

It turns out that, though far back, Brazil is already the third largest soybean producer after the U.S. and China. More important, it's hot for expansion in this field. The product grows well in the country's higher, somewhat drier southern regions.

Wheat farmers there, disappointed over recent poor output, are switching to soybeans, despite the fact Brazil right now has to import part of its wheat needs and doesn't want to become too dependent on imports.

Still, providing the pursuit of this new big-seller doesn't get too feverish, Brazilian authorities want to encourage what's happening. This year they estimate they may export $600 million worth of soybeans as they produce perhaps three million tons.

In 1974, they say exports of this product may surpass $1 billion, with production possibly reaching five million tons. If that occurs, it may be the first time in the country's history that coffee slips from its historic perch as Brazil's top export.

This doesn't mean coffee is falling from favor. Demand is stable, and the world market price high. Brazil wants to hold its place in this lucrative field.

Nevertheless, the soybean export push is symbolic of its wish to find more and more of the means required for major economic uplift which will truly unlock the big storehouse.

Naturally enough, Brazilians are thinking of themselves. Their annual per capita income is $30, as against oil-rich Venezuela's $950 and Argentina's $880. Brazilians want to be industrialized, independent, and playing a role that matches their size and resources.

Never mind that. It will benefit a good part of the world if they bring it off (and of course the problems are many). Anyway, just for a change, there's a nice helping of good news.
